Sovereignty Commission In Operation

Davis Signs Bill Creating 13-Man Board

BATON ROUGE (AP)—The State Sovereignty Commission sprang to life in Louisiana Friday when Gov. Jimmie H. Davis signed the legislative bill creating it.

As an emergency measure, the bill had immediate effect.

The 13-man commission has the duty to protect the rights of the state against federal encroachment. This includes matters of racial segregation.

Only five of the members are now on the board—the top state officials who hold membership by virtue of their positions.

These are Gov. Davis, Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, House Speaker Tom Jewell and Senate President Pro-Tempore Robert Ainsworth.

RESPONSIBILITY

The governor has the responsibility of appointing the eight members, who must come from each of Louisiana's eight congressional districts.

There has been little mention of appointments to the board.

Davis said after the sovereignty commission bill was introduced by Sen. Wendell Harris, Baton Rouge, that the probable chairman was former Sen. William Rainach of Sumnerfield.

But the long-time segregation chief in Louisiana, after disagreement with Davis, later washed his hands of the whole matter. Rainach said he would rather be on the outside where he can criticize.

A truce was declared between proponents of strong segregation and the administration.

Davis once told a press conference he may name some Louisiana district attorneys to the commission, but he still was turning over the matter in his mind.

Members will serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The commission chairman will receive $50 for each work day and expenses. The members will get $25 a day and travel expenses while away from home on authorized business for the commission.

The Sovereignty Commission has broad powers to subpoena witnesses and conduct investigations, but it must act through the state's courts to enforce its subpoena powers.

I can employ an executive secretary and other personnel and fix salaries with approval of the governor.

Records of the commission are exempted from the public records law.

Senate Passes Money Bill For Labor, Health

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Friday passed 63-6 a money bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare exceeding administration requests by nearly 465 million dollars.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican floor leader, said, "I think I can assure you that the President will be compelled to veto this bill. I am going to ask him to do so."

The final total of the bill was $4,455,728,321, exactly $1,700,000 more than when it came out of committee.

School Board Runoff Today

Twenty-three and four polls in wards three and 10 open at 8 a.m. today for the runoff election between Wayne Woods and W. E. Whelstone for a city school board post. Polls close at 8 p.m.

Grayson Guthrie, W. S. Ganna, W. J. H. Scogin Jr. and Frank Breese Jr. were elected in the first race. Whelstone secured 3345 votes, while Woods garnered 3096.

Whelstone is district manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co. Woods is vice-president of Crescent Drilling Co. and Harvey Producers Inc.

ONE KILLED Harsh Weather Causes Damage

By The Associated Press

Stormy weather plowed into the nation's southeast quarter Friday with hail, heavy rain and gusty winds. The violent weather, carried on a cold front which dropped Midwest temperatures to the 60s, caused at least one death, many injuries and extensive damage during its sweep from the Plains.

IKE CAN'T GIVE IT Formosa Seeking Policy Assurance

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—This nation would like an assurance that President Eisenhower, as an outgoing president, cannot give a promise that the United States will continue its policy of non-recognition of Communist China and recognition of Nationalist China as the only legal government of all China.

It is a policy that has been subject to increasing debate in the United States.

The Nationalists also would like assurance that they would have major logistical support from the United States for an attempt to recapture the Communist-controlled mainland if there should be a major internal uprising against the Communist regime.

That remains the last major hope of the Nationalists to return to China. But no matter how much the American people or any American leader might desire the downfall of the Communist regime, no American leader could

House Votes New Foreign Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House gave President Eisenhower a partial victory Friday night by voting $3,524,500,000 in new funds for the foreign aid program.

RESTORED

The House restored half of the 400 million dollars the committee cut from military assistance allocations but refused to put back any of the 124 million trimmed from defense support programs.

The roll-call vote on final passage was 258-124.

The military assistance allotment was increased by a roll-call vote of 212-173. An attempt to increase the defense support fund failed on a standing vote of 141-119. No request was made for a roll call on this phase of the bill.

Davis Replies To Report On LSU Control

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A sports editor said Friday a story that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration is trying to gain control of the Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors "was right close to the truth."

Davis termed such reports ridiculous and said somebody is being misinformed.

Sports Editor Bob Monette of The Baton Rouge Morning Advocate said a check showed the story about the Davis administration is more than a rumor.

Orleans Fire Injures Six

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Spouting flames that reached a height of 100 feet demolished a warehouse early Friday causing damage estimated at $70,000 and injuring six firemen.

Fifth District Fire Chief John Galway said the six firemen injured were treated for nail punctures and burns. None was hospitalized.

Disarmament Negotiators To Consult

Will Attempt To Save Confab From Collapse

GENEVA (AP)—The chief American and British disarmament negotiators flew home for top-level consultations Friday in an attempt to save the 10-nation conference from collapse.

U.S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton and British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore left Geneva immediately after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin loosed his harshest words for the West since the talks began three months ago.

ACCUSED

He accused the American delegation of sabotaging the disarmament talks to justify U.S. preparations for war. Obviously infuriated by Western rejection of the new Soviet disarmament plan, Zorin urged the United States "to draw the practical conclusions" from what he called the Japanese people's refusal to receive President Eisenhower.

IN IKE'S HANDS Bill Would Hike Civil Service Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Daring a veto, the Senate Friday sent President Eisenhower a bill to raise the pay of 1½ million civil service and postal workers by about 74½ million dollars a year.

Senate passage came on a 62-17 vote. This was a margin of nine votes more than the two-thirds that would be needed to override a veto.

Engineer Firm Head Linked To Bizarre Plot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The president of a suburban engineering firm was accused Friday of carrying out a bizarre aerial murder plot, then collecting a small fortune in insurance.

Police said Richard E. Loomis, 43, will be booked on suspicion of murder, conspiracy to defraud an insurance company and destruction of insured personal property.

LONG LIST OF GRIEVANCES U.S. Is Preparing Cuban Indictment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is preparing to indict Cuba before the Organization of American States for a long list of diplomatic sins ranging from slander to plots to embarrass this country, diplomatic sources said Friday.

They said the case might be presented as early as next month. The charges also will accuse Fidel Castro's regime of taking over U.S. property in Cuba without compensation.

The charges, the result of months of intensive preparation, will be laid before the International Peace Committee of the OAS.

One item of evidence will be a "spurious photograph" displayed by Castro. It purported to show Roy R. Rubottom, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, plotting an invasion of Nicaragua with one Chester Lacayo.

Leftists Set New Protests

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese leftists ordered about 280,000 demonstrators to march against the Diet building and the U. S. Embassy Saturday in their drive to halt ratification of the U. S.-Japan security treaty.

Sixty-five thousand dancing and chanting demonstrators marched around the Diet Friday. In the melee, Socialist legislator Jotaro Kawakami, 71, was stabbed in the shoulder by an unemployed rightist youth, Shinzaburo Toma, 20.

The demonstrators' goal is to force Premier Nobusuke Kishi to dissolve Parliament before Japan's automatic ratification of the security treaty becomes final at midnight—30 days after passage by Parliament's lower house. If Parliament is dissolved before midnight, ratification would be nullified. But Kishi's government remained determined to stay in office until the treaty goes into force.

POLICE

Police, who so far have backed away from massive use of force to halt the riots, were mobilized to meet Saturday's onslaught.

IN IKE'S HANDS

Senate passage came on a 62-17 vote. This was a margin of nine votes more than the two-thirds that would be needed to override a veto.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois announced he will ask Eisenhower to veto the bill.

Before final passage, the Senate shouted down a bid by Dirksen to write into the measure a 550-million-dollar postal rate increase asked by Eisenhower.

PASSED

Two days ago, the House passed this very same measure by a 377-40 count, far more than a two-thirds majority. It acted in the face of a flat veto prediction by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

The measure would give one million federal workers a pay boost of 7½ per cent. In addition, half a million postal employees would receive salary increases averaging 8.4 per cent.

REPEATEDLY

Repeatedly, economy-minded Democrats and Republicans mounted offensives to trim the bill in one way or another. Repeatedly, they were beaten back.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) denounced it as a "purely political bill."

Ike Looking Forward To Chiang Talk

TAIPEI (AP)—President Eisenhower pledged America's "steadfast solidarity" with Nationalist China Saturday hours after Red Chinese guns hurled a record-breaking death-dealing bombardment on the Nationalist island of Quemoy.

Eisenhower, arriving for a 24-hour goodwill visit, said East-West tensions demand "increased vigilance and closer cooperation in the face of threats imposed by Communist imperialism."

The Chinese Communists poured nearly 26,000 rounds on the Quemoy complex Friday night while Eisenhower traveled here aboard the cruiser St. Paul.

REPORTS

Unconfirmed reports said 19 Chinese Nationalists on Quemoy were killed and many wounded. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China, met Eisenhower at Taipei's Pine Hill airport in near 90-degree humid temperatures. Eisenhower flew from the St. Paul to the airport aboard a helicopter.

Chiang, dressed in his Fields' Marshall's uniform, called Eisenhower's visit "a powerful demonstration of the lasting friendship between the Republic of China and the United States of America."

Eisenhower's helicopter touched down on this island fortress nation less than 100 miles off the coast of Red China at 10:02 a.m.

Eisenhower said he looked forward to "fruitful exchanges" with Chiang.

"Our friendship, tested in war and in peace," he said, "is a real source of strength in our development of free world security."

The President, in his arrival remarks, hailed the aspirations for a "world of freedom, just peace and friendship under the rule of law."

British Labor Leader Asked To Step Down

LONDON (AP)—Noisy in-fighting shook Britain's Labor party Friday and brought the first open demand for Hugh Gaitskell to step down as leader.

The demand was issued by local party workers in Gaitskell's home district, the smart London suburb of Hampstead, and by itself carried little weight. But it gave open expression to a mood which has steadily boiled up among party left-wingers ever since Labor lost the national election last October.

Political pundits freely forecast that, with three defeats in a row, the Laborites could never again bounce back to power against the apparently invincible prosperity banner of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives.

SEARCH

It was in anguished search for new political formulas that Labor's rift opened—and kept widening to the point where some commentators now see dangers of total extinction.

The quarrel revolves around two basic issues—socialism at home and the nuclear deterrent abroad.

The first part of the quarrel appeared to have been smoothed over earlier in the year when Gaitskell engineered a compromise revision of the party's socialist charter.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—This nation would like an assurance that President Eisenhower, as an outgoing president, cannot give a promise that the United States will continue its policy of non-recognition of Communist China and recognition of Nationalist China as the only legal government of all China.

It is a policy that has been subject to increasing debate in the United States. The Nationalists also would like assurance that they would have major logistical support from the United States for an attempt to recapture the Communist-controlled mainland if there should be a major internal uprising against the Communist regime.

That remains the last major hope of the Nationalists to return to China. But no matter how much the American people or any American leader might desire the downfall of the Communist regime, no American leader could give a solid long-range promise of military logistical support to a Nationalist venture that might touch off World War III.

The Nationalist China-United China joint defense treaty is just that—a pledge jointly to defend Formosa against Communist attack. It does not pledge to support Nationalist action against Red China, regardless of what circumstances might prompt that action.

Defense against Communist aggression is certain to be a main topic of conversation between President Eisenhower and President Chiang at their private talks. The Nationalists feel there should not be a safe cut in the present military aid—an average of 175 million U.S. dollars a year from 1950 through 1959. The Nationalists want more modern planes, more missiles, and more and heavier new artillery. The artillery is particularly wanted for defense of Quemoy.

House Votes New Foreign Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House gave President Eisenhower a partial victory Friday night by voting $3,584,500,000 in new funds for the foreign aid program.

It passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing 590½ million dollars less than the President originally requested but 200 million more than the House Appropriations Committee had recommended.

The President had protested vigorously against the committee cuts and urged restoration of extra money for military assistance and defense support phases of the mutual security program.

RESTORED

The House restored half of the 400 million dollars the committee cut from military assistance allocations but refused to put back any of the 124 million trimmed from defense support programs.

The roll-call vote on final passage was 258-124. The military assistance allotment was increased by a roll-call vote of 212-173. An attempt to increase the defense support fund failed on a standing vote of 141-119. No request was made for a roll call on this phase of the bill.

In the Senate, administration leaders are expected to make another effort to get the bill back up toward the $4,000,000,000 ceiling authorized by both houses in previous legislation.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.) sponsored the unsuccessful amendment to restore 50 million of a 124-million-dollar cut in the original request of 734 million for defense support funds. These grants go to countries considered to be straining their economies to make a major military contribution to free world defenses.

The House voted after hearing sharp criticism of Japan's failure to cope with street riots that forced cancellation of Eisenhower's plan to visit Tokyo this Sunday.

From the other side came pleas that the foreign aid program is needed to help this country's allies stand firm against the Communist threat.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the Republican floor leader who quartered the administration fight for a full measure of foreign aid funds, read a telegram from Eisenhower saying cuts in the program "cannot but jeopardize our own security and the defense of the free world."

The President sent the telegram.

"It is not accidental that the Japanese people rejected the visit," he said, "because they directly linked this visit to the policy aimed at perpetuating American military bases in Japan."

He conjured up a specter of popular revolts against Western military bases everywhere by recalling the bloody 1958 revolution in Iraq and recent disorders in South Korea.

"We understand that an important British air base at Habbaniya was established on the territory of Iraq with the consent of the Nuri Said government," he said. "But Mr. Ormsby-Gore probably remembers the fate of that Iraqi ruler when the people of Iraq took the destiny of their country into their own hands, embarked on the road of an independent foreign policy and liquidated the British base at Habbaniya." AGAINST RATIFICATION

Leftists Set New Protests

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese leftists ordered about 280,000 demonstrators to march against the Diet building and the U. S. Embassy Saturday in their drive to halt ratification of the U. S.-Japan security treaty.

Sixty-five thousand dancing and chanting demonstrators marched around the Diet Friday. In the melee, Socialist legislator Jotaro Kawakami, 71, was stabbed in the shoulder by an unemployed rightist youth, Shinzaburo Toma, 20.

The demonstrators' goal is to force Premier Nobusuke Kishi to dissolve Parliament before Japan's automatic ratification of the security treaty becomes final at midnight—30 days after passage by Parliament's lower house. If Parliament is dissolved before midnight, ratification would be nullified. But Kishi's government remained determined to stay in office until the treaty goes into force.

POLICE

Police, who so far have backed away from massive use of force to halt the riots, were mobilized to meet Saturday's onslaught.

Their numbers have not been disclosed. A government spokesman accused the postwar U. S. occupation of "weakening Japan and its police so that present international communism can carry out its activities quite freely."

There were rumors the government is poised to invoke Japan's riot law, under which more drastic action and punishment can be imposed if there are new attempts to storm the Diet grounds as student mobs did last Wednesday. One was killed and more than 1,000 injured that day. Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party spokesman, Kosaku Shinoda, told newsmen the Premier planned new elections after ratification of the treaty. Then President Eisenhower, whose trip here was canceled because of the rioting, can be invited again to visit Japan, he said.

Kishi denounced the violence.

Bill Would Hike Civil Service Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Daring a veto, the Senate Friday sent President Eisenhower a bill to raise the pay of 1½ million civil service and postal workers by about 746 million dollars a year.

Senate passage came on a 62-17 vote. This was a margin of nine votes more than the two-thirds that would be needed to override a veto.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois announced he will ask Eisenhower to veto the bill.

Before final passage, the Senate shouted down a bid by Dirksen to write into the measure a 550-million-dollar postal rate increase asked by Eisenhower.

PASSED

Two days ago, the House passed this very same measure by a 377-40 count, far more than a two-thirds majority. It acted in the face of a flat veto prediction by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

U.S. Is Preparing Cuban Indictment

The charges, the result of months of intensive preparation, will be laid before the International Peace Committee of the O.A.S. One item of evidence will be what State Department officials called a "spurious photograph" displayed by Castro. It purported to show Roy R. Rubottom, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, plotting an invasion of Nicaragua with one Chester Lacayo.

announced this week that Lacayo and 13 others were under arrest in Havana for plotting an invasion of Nicaragua from Cuba.

Castro, on a television program, waved a picture which he said showed Lacayo and Rubottom in Washington, and the picture was later reproduced by Cuba's semi-official government newspaper "Revolucion."

The State Department has denied Lacayo ever met Rubottom. Officials said the picture showed "Rubottom" only as an indistinct blur but obviously bald. Rubottom has a full head of hair.

Disclosure of the proposed U.S. charges came as Castro's announced plan to visit Russia was described in Congress as new evidence the Cuban premier is a Communist tool and deserves firmer treatment at U.S. hands.

Shortly before the visit was disclosed, Senate Democratic Leader

Chiang, dressed in his Fields' Marshal's uniform, called Eisenhower's visit "a powerful demonstration of the lasting friendship between the Republic of China and the United States of America."

Eisenhower's helicopter touched down on this island fortress nation less than 100 miles off the coast of Red China at 10:02 a.m.

Eisenhower said he looked forward to "fruitful exchanges" with Chiang.

"Our friendship, tested in war and in peace," he said, "is a real source of strength in our development of free world security."

The President, in his arrival remarks, hailed the aspirations for a "world of freedom, just peace and friendship under the rule of law."

"I bring you the personal assurance of America's steadfast

British Labor Leader Asked To Step Down

LONDON (AP)—Noisy in-fighting shook Britain's Labor party Friday and brought the first open demand for Hugh Gaitskell to step down as leader.

The demand was issued by local party workers in Gaitskell's home district, the smart London suburb of Hampstead, and by itself carried little weight. But it gave open expression to a mood which has steadily boiled up among party left-wingers ever since Labor lost the national election last October.

Political pundits freely forecast that, with three defeats in a row, the Laborites could never again bounce back to power against the apparently invincible prosperity banner of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives.

SEARCH

It was in anguished search for new political formulas that Labor's rift opened—and kept widening to the point where some commentators now see dangers of total extinction.

The quarrel revolves around two basic issues—socialism at home and the nuclear deterrent abroad.

The first part of the quarrel appeared to have been smoothed over earlier in the year when Gaitskell engineered a compromise revision of the party's socialist charter.

saying it was an attempt to wreck democratic government. He says it was ordered in Peking and Moscow.

The Premier refused to resign or dissolve Parliament when Socialist Chairman Iwano Asanuma arrested the Kawakami standing committee, who headed a moderate faction, was not seriously hurt. His attacker rushed on his head while he was taking signatures on an anti-protest petition.

Orders for Saturday's attack were relayed to thousands of students and labor union members outside the Diet Friday.

A few stones were thrown, and some demonstrators beat on the windows of the Parliament gates with sticks. But their leaders warned against attacking the building to push through the so-called unbridled committee.

This attack may have been a last ditch effort to force the government to resign.

solidarity with you and your government in the defense of these ideals and in the pursuit of our common aspirations," Eisenhower said.

Neither Chiang nor Eisenhower mentioned directly the furious bombardment loosed on Quemoy in what the Chinese Communists said was an expression of "contempt and scorn" for Eisenhower.

Announcing in advance the artillery assault would be timed with Eisenhower's visit to Formosa, Peiping called the American President the "god of plague."

Hundreds of thousands of people were gathered along the 41-mile route from the airport to Taipei to welcome the President on the Formosa part of his curtailed Asian tour.

With a Nationalist army, navy and Marine honor guard standing by at the airport, Chiang told Eisenhower: "Today with half of mankind enslaved... especially the majority of the Far East under the constant threat of Communist aggression, it behooves our governments to cooperate even more closely than ever before to uphold freedom and justice, to preserve human dignity, and to ensure peace and security in the area of the free world."

Eisenhower stepped out of the Marine helicopter for a red carpet welcome at the tightly guarded airport.

Only top Nationalist officials, a few invited guests and U.S. Embassy and military authorities were on hand for the official greeting.

The President's face was ruddy from six days of travel.

Eisenhower was dressed in a checked, light-colored suit. He shook hands warmly with Chiang and introduced the Nationalist leader to his son, Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, his daughter-in-law Barbara and other members of the party.

Chiang and Eisenhower, both smiling broadly, then shook hands again and Chiang escorted his visitor along a receiving line.

A 21-gun salute boomed out as a band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Eisenhower stood at attention with his hat over his heart. Chiang saluted stiffly. Twenty-four fighter planes flew over the field.

The President and his party came here from the Philippines for the 24-hour visit before going on to South Korea. His scheduled visit to Japan was called off because of violent leftist demonstrations in Tokyo. In the Japanese capital, more demonstrators poured into the streets Saturday to protest against the government of Premier Nobusuke Kishi and the U.S.-Japan security treaty.

The St. Paul arrived off the coast of Formosa at 6:30 a.m. but her exact location was kept secret under security precautions. The President and his party, however, were far from the scene of the Red Chinese artillery action and were not endangered by the unprecedented bombardment.

Nationalist defense officials announced the total of rounds fired in two thunderous barrages Friday night.

No casualties were reported among the U.S. advisory group on the heavily fortified Quemoy complex, which lies more than 100 miles over water from Formosa.

Nationalist guns did not reply.

The Communists began shelling Quemoy 13 hours before Eisenhower's arrival. At that time the President was steaming toward Formosa with vessels of the 7th fleet.

U.S. Is Preparing Cuban Indictment

Lyndon M. Johnson (Tex.) said it was time for serious thought how this country should react to "ever closer collaboration between the Soviets and the Cuban government."

Officials found these suspicious aspects to the allegedly spurious photo involving Rubottom.

The Cubans said Lacerda and the others including Lester Bradley, a pilot from Minneapolis, were arrested June 15. However, officials said they have learned they actually were arrested two weeks before and were held incommunicado.

—Castro also wired a telegram last week allegedly inviting Lacerda to meet with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. Officials said this indicated the Cubans were planning as far back as January to cook up a plot to embarrass the United States.

gram to House leaders in both parties shortly before he left last weekend for his trip to the Far East.

As finally passed, the measure provides $1,800,000,000 of the two billion dollars Eisenhower requested for direct military aid in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This represented a 50 per cent reduction of the 400-million-dollar cut recommended in the military and fund by the House Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.) head of a subcommittee that initiated this and other cuts, led a fight to sustain the reductions. Passman charged waste and mismanagement and said foreign aid dispensers already have too much money.

As usual, the foreign aid battle split party lines. Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.), chairman of the Democratic National Convention's platform committee, said a cut in aid funds "at a time when our nation has been brutally challenged both in Europe and in East Asia would be reckless and irresponsible."

On the other hand, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) made one of his infrequent descents to the floor to be counted in opposition to restoring the 200 million dollars in military aid money.

The amendment to repair this much of the committee cut was sponsored by Rep. John Taber of New York, senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee. It was supported by 165 Democrats and 197 Republicans. Against it were 129 Democrats and 34 Republicans.

ated a plane so it would crash after Gibbs took off.

Gibbs was killed July 1, 1957, in the flaming crash at nearby Calabasas of a World War II British-made Mosquito bomber, a twin-engine plywood craft.

Police Sgt. John H. Edwards said Loomis denies sabotaging the plane but says he took out the insurance to protect himself in a joint business venture with Gibbs. Loomis says Gibbs, a professional pilot, was his partner in proposed bidding on aerial mapping jobs for the U.S. and Ethiopian governments, the detective added.

The flight was to familiarize Gibbs with the plane, he quoted Loomis as saying.

Loomis lives with his wife, Joan, in nearby Pasadena. Police described him as a promoter and speculator who formerly headed Transworld Engineering Co. of suburban Burbank, now defunct.

Deputy Police Chief Thad Brown said Loomis obtained the policy from Lloyd's of London and collected $7,500 on it within 30 days of Gibbs' death.

"We have information to show that Loomis placed himself in a position to sabotage the hydraulic system controlling the landing mechanism in such a manner as to preclude a safe landing," Brown said.

Police have witnesses, Brown said, who knew before Gibbs took off that the right landing wheel would not retract properly.

As a constitutional proposal, the bill would not require Davis' signature, but would go directly to the people.

Montet's paper backed Davis' opponent in the governor's race. "We don't know anything about politics," Montet said, "but let us tell you of this thing called sports."

"The story is, and is more than a rumor, that Corbett will be replaced by former athletic director T. P. (Skipper) Heard, and Dietzel will be replaced by James (Big Fuzzy) Brown, now head football coach at Louisiana State."

"I don't know who's promoting these rumors and rumors," Davis commented, "because to me somebody is being misinformed. They are ridiculous as far as I'm concerned."

"As I have said in my press conferences before, I don't want any part of controlling the LSU board and I want it set up where no governor would ever be able to control the board—that I or no governor would be able to control the board."

"In the first place, I have all that I can do without meddling with somebody else's affairs," Davis said.

"I have known Gen. Middleton a long time, as a personal friend and as an official which I hold in highest esteem."

"Paul Dietzel has a remarkable record as a coach. I think he has done a great job. And I can't imagine where you could go to find a better athletic director than Jim Corbett, who has been my personal friend for many years."

"And," he said, "I am in favor of retaining each one of them in the positions that they now hold. This is what I have always said privately and publicly—in the press, TV and radio."

"I don't know how I could make it any plainer. I hope this statement will take care of these unfounded rumors."

Of the 175 students arrested in Wednesday's attack, 125 were referred to prosecutors for charges. So, too, were 28 of 51 rightists arrested.

Kishi, speaking before an upper house parliamentary committee, promised "relentless punishment" of all those responsible for the assault.

Japan's ambassador to Washington, Koichiro Asakai, expressed fear on arriving here Friday that cancellation of Eisenhower's visit may shove U.S.-Japan relations back to "Remember Pearl Harbor."

Editorials in Japanese newspapers expressed relief at postponement of Eisenhower's visit, but regretted its necessity. The demonstrations prompted all seven major newspapers to issue a joint statement saying: "Never have we become so concerned over the future of Japan."

HOWARD, FLORY

Final Statements On Utility Bill

Flory's Statement

Howard's Statement

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — In a new statement, which he declared would be his final one on the matter, Gordon Flory, legislative chief of the Louisiana AFL-CIO, has renewed his charges that Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard aided him in drafting a bill that would return the Monroe Utilities Commission to the control of the city council.

Flory released his statement Thursday and he said:

"As for Mayor Howard telling me that he was opposed to this bill when he came to Baton Rouge, this is also not correct. He did inform me, however, that the other two members of the council were opposed to it and on that basis he must oppose it, yet he personally hoped we would be successful on the passage of this bill even though he could not publicly endorse it."

In releasing the statement Thursday, Flory said he did not intend to continue answering Howard in the papers but was issuing an answer to Howard's rebuttal which he said "misrepresented the facts."

Here is Flory's signed statement:

"Because of the statements by Mayor Howard denying his participation in the discussion and approval of the bill, I find it necessary to answer Mayor Howard's charges that I have misrepresented the facts in this case. As I have stated before, I met with Mayor Howard and Mr. Travis Thomas numerous times on this subject and Mayor Howard gave his full endorsement to us on this proposed legislation. It is my firm belief that any one analyzing this proposed legislation in question can readily see not only the Mayor's approval of such legislation but can detect without question his interest and approval in the drafting of same."

Mayor Howard asked why we didn't bring this out in the campaign because Mayor Howard had specifically requested that we not do so as it may jeopardize the sale of bonds for the utility commission. Mayor Howard asked us, and we agreed, not to mention this until after the bonds had been sold and the money deposited in the bank in Monroe."

"As for Mayor Howard telling me that he was opposed to this bill when he came to Baton Rouge, this is also not correct. He did inform me, however, that the other two members of the council were opposed to it and on this basis he must oppose it, yet he personally hoped we would be successful on the passage of this bill even though he could not publicly endorse it."

"Mayor Howard stated at a breakfast that six other people attended, that he had known all along that the bill was unconstitutional in creating the utility commission, and this is one of the things we were attempting to correct. At this breakfast Mayor Howard stated that he was now against the proposed changes because of personal reasons but refused further comment even though he was asked if he did not assist in the preparation of the changes. My position in this matter was at the request of some 5,000 union members and their families in Monroe to assist them in this matter."

"I do not intend to continue answering such charges or making any further statements regarding this matter, because the Ouachita Central Trades and Labor Council was merely attempting to improve the utility system and give the citizens and tax payers of Monroe the proper protection they are entitled to."

"Regardless of what Mayor Howard has said or what he says in the future, there are three people who know that what I have said is true — Mayor Howard, Mr. Travis Thomas and myself — and I can only say that my conscience is clear."

Senate Group Boosts Funds On Space Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Friday boosted funds for the nation's civilian space agency in the new fiscal year starting July 1 to 965 million dollars.

The money for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was included in a $8,414,422,000 appropriation bill that the Senate is expected to take up Saturday.

The measure carries funds to finance more than a score of federal agencies, including $5,367,802,000 for the Veterans Administration.

Monroe's Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard has again denied any part in a bill that was drawn up for the legislature which would have returned the Monroe Utilities Commission to the control of the city council. Mayor Howard made a statement in answer to a second statement containing charges from the state's labor ramrod in the legislature that Mayor Howard had assisted him in formulating the measure.

The mayor has been charged, in two separate statements, by Gordon Flory, AFL-CIO legislative representative of supporting the bill and then changing his mind about the matter.

Mayor Howard's full statement follows:

"I have just been informed of a new statement issued by Mr. Flory. It seems that every few days he is able to think up new charges to hurl at me. I am not quite sure of all of his motives, but it seems apparent that one of them is to try and destroy me if at all possible. Could it be that since I refused to bow to him on several occasions that he has chosen this course? Could it be that since I made public during the election and after the election my opposition to his bill that he is determined to smear and discredit me if he possibly can. Could it be that since I refused to exert pressure on the Utilities Commission to submit to his demands have any bearing on his attitude toward me. Could it be that since I have informed him on several occasions that the City would oppose any law suit which he was threatening to file in an effort to declare the Commission law unconstitutional, have any influence on his thinking toward me? Could it be because I refused to discharge all city employees regardless of whether they had five or twenty years service with the City if they failed to join the union, have any bearing on his attitude toward me."

"These charges which Mr. Flory has made are so fantastic that it seems foolish to dignify them with an answer. One of the great needs in America today is for men in public office who have the guts and backbone to stick to their convictions, and yet there are always those who are willing to use any means to destroy those with whom they disagree. I have heard it said many times by responsible, honest, upright citizens that because of these smear tactics, this is one of the reasons why so many capable and qualified people refuse to seek public office."

"One of the charges contained in Mr. Flory's statement says and I quote, 'Mayor Howard asks why we would not bring this out in the campaign if four statements were true. We would not bring this out in the campaign because we had been specifically requested that we not do so as it might jeopardize the sale of bonds by the Utilities Commission.' This statement, like the others, is as phony as a three dollar bill."

"We have no Utilities Commission bonds for sale now and had none to sell during the city election. The last of the Utilities Commission bonds were sold several months ago. Apparently Mr. Flory thinks that his influence extends all the way to the new York market. Quite a compliment, I'd say! Certainly anyone with an ounce of intelligence would know that no statement pro or con, in any city election by anyone would have no bearing on the sale of bonds. However the truth of the matter is that the City has no bonds for sale and this is just another pipe dream of Mr. Flory's in an effort to discredit me. It is true that the City Council and the Utilities Commission tried to amend the existing Utilities Commission law two years ago and failed to get our amendment passed, however, I wish to point out that there is a vast difference in the amendment which the City Council and Utilities sponsored two years ago and that amendment which Mr. Flory has been trying to get through the legislature."

"This is the second time that I have been called upon to make a statement in reply to false charges made by Mr. Flory. I can't stop him from issuing his statements but I wish to point out that certainly the American Press, has a responsibility to the citizens of this city to protect the innocent and condemn the guilty, but in so doing have a heavy responsibility of determining what is true. I do not believe that the American Press has the right in the name of freedom of the press, to print any charge that anyone might make against another citizen. I have refused to grant Mr. Flory's requests in the past on several occasions and I will never endorse any move by him or anyone else that I know to be wrong."

"If I am condemned because of my principles, then I stand condemned, but as long as I am Mayor of the City of Monroe, no outsider, whether he be from Shreveport, Baton Rouge, or Hong Kong, China, is going to dictate the policies of my office. I have every respect and admiration for members of organized labor. It has been a real source of satisfaction to me to have had a hand in securing pay raises for our city employees. Not one time during the last four years has any

The contract for the new 100-bed Ward Five Memorial Hospital was signed at West Monroe City Hall yesterday, and work on the 100-bed hospital is to begin Monday morning according to John McCormick, West Monroe city attorney.

McCormick received a telephone call from Jack London, member of the state hospital board, about noon Thursday, stating that the Dallas branch of the U. S. Public Health Department had given the plans final approval.

The $1,919,560 contract was awarded to West Monroe contractors, Jesse F. Heard and Sons, and calls for a 100-bed structure of reinforced concrete and masonry.

Heard's first bid, which was submitted some weeks ago, was $2,011,000 which was slightly over the total of the funds available for construction of the new building. Commissioners began minor revisions on the plans, reducing them by about $90,000 through negotiations.

After this reduction, West Monroe officials applied to Hill-Burton Fund for an additional amount of money, and were given an additional $70,000 for construction. McCormick said that in this way, the hospital plans were not altered.

The entire hospital, including the contract for building, contingencies and furnishings, will come to a sum total of $2,219,560. West Monroe officials said last night that they had been working toward this project since early in 1958.

Ground-breaking ceremonies will probably take place Monday, June 27.

After the contract had been signed and witnessed by Mayor Norris, the board of Commissioners of the Hospital held a brief business meeting.

Business called for an election of new chairman and vice chairman of the Board. Re-elected to serve in these positions were Judge Jesse S. Heard and Fred Bennett. These two officers must be elected annually, according to state laws. Judge Heard noted.

Senate Group Boosts Funds On Space Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee Friday boosted funds for the nation's civilian space agency in the new fiscal year starting July 1 to 965 million dollars.

The money for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was included in a $8,414,412,900 appropriation bill that the Senate is expected to take up Saturday.

The measure carries funds to finance more than a score of federal agencies, including $5,367,002,000 for the Veterans Administration.

The over-all total in the bill is 232 million more than the House voted but nearly three million less than President Eisenhower's budget requests. However, it is slightly more than 1 1/4 billion dollars over last year's appropriations for the agencies.

Moral Responsibility

An occasional reminder of moral responsibility is good for all of us, for we are often prone to forget that the world is not made up entirely of material factors. It is the spiritual side of life that raises us above the level of beasts, and we should keep this always in mind.

A case in point is that of Francis G. Powers, pilot of the U-2 spy plane, whom the Soviets are holding as a spy for his May 1 flight deep into Russian territory. There were numerous suggestions that Powers should have ended his own life rather than allow himself to be captured. The Russians claimed Powers carried a poison pin with which he could have committed suicide.

Justifiably, the Roman Catholic weekly, America, said that "suicide is evil whatever the circumstances and the government has no right to order a spy about to be captured to kill himself."

Referring to the U-2 spy plane incident in which the captured American pilot was reported by the Russians to be carrying a poisoned "special pin" for use in case of capture, the Jesuit-edited magazine said:

"If true, apparently the instinct of self-preservation triumphed over the unwritten code of secret agents."

"Suicide is an intrinsically evil act, regardless of circumstances or motives, and cannot be excused by appeals to honor nor hallowed by reasons of state."

"Neither can the spy find a way out of his dilemma by saying that when he kills himself he does so not on his own authority but on that of the state. The state has no competence in the matter."

Post-Dated Trials

Fidel Castro's Red-infiltrated Cuba has one bad provision for the punishment of crime which is shared by some of the states in the United States and which has been upheld by some supreme courts. It is a provision outside the realm of reason and justice. Under this measure, juveniles who commit crimes when they are too young to be tried as adults are merely held in custody until they reach an age of adult responsibility.

When Captain Manuel Beaton, bitter foe of Castro, his brother Cipriano Beaton and Felipe Martinez, all classed as rebels against the Castro regime, were tried in Cuba and sentenced to death by firing squad, seven members of the band of rebels were found to be under age. They were sent to a reform school until they are old enough for trial.

Such a procedure in Cuba, which is now overrun with visitors from all of the main Communist countries, is to be expected. In fact, it is a wonder that the court did of destroying an innocent human life.

"To argue otherwise is to subscribe to the essential principle of totalitarianism."

"If the state can legitimately command an intelligence agent to kill himself, how can we withstand compulsory euthanasia or all the other vagaries of social engineering that make a mockery of the public philosophy of inalienable rights."

Down through the ages there have been some nations in which suicide was upheld as an honorable act. The Orientals, including the Chinese and particularly the Japanese, for countless generations, looked upon suicide as a justifiable way of "saving face."

There is some difference between suicide and throwing oneself into conflict with such reckless abandon that loss of life is virtually certain. In one case the person takes his own life; in the other he merely does not prevent others from taking his life. If combat to the death is excusable in behalf of a cause, the same does not apply to suicide.

Instead of honoring suicide, Americans regard it as absolute defeat. It is the last resort of those who do not have enough courage to live.

As far as can be determined, no nation has ever profited in the long run by adopting suicide, under any circumstances, as a national policy.

Nations cannot surrender their morality without suffering the corroding effects of internal decay. If we gain a little by a required suicide both the individual and the nation lose more.

Chinese False Claims

Now it appears that the Red Chinese, who are emulating the Russians in making claims of great achievements, chose the wrong day to claim they ascended Mt. Everest on the difficult side. A blinding blizzard occurred on May 25, the day the achievement was claimed to have been made and not even the easier side could have been ascended on that day under conditions which the Red Chinese claimed.

Skepticism was increased by the fact that a party from Darjeeling, home of the all-India Himalayan Mountaineering Institute, was poised for the ascent that would have carried it to the top but did not make the attempt because of the blizzard. Even on this—the easier side—ascend without oxygen would have been impossible, the experts said.

Some speculated the Chinese might have strayed to the south face before reaching the top but said, in that case, they should have met the Indians poised for their summit bid.

Tenzing Norgay, reputedly the first Everest conqueror and the guiding spirit of the Mountaineering Institute, says it is possible to stand on top of the world's highest point without oxygen, provided the climbers have "extraordinary lung power, plus endurance, physical fitness of the highest order, determination and strong will power."

Morgay and others do not believe it would be possible to climb the difficult side without oxygen on a comparatively good day. They think that, with the blinding blizzard, the feat would be completely inconceivable and out of reason.

Looks as if the Reds are just boasting again.

Candidate Is Own Backer

Curiosity Of Our Political System Is That Men Must Immodestly Project Themselves For Office

The curiosity of our political system is that men must immodestly project themselves for public office. No one is ever asked to run. No one is begged to run. No one is drafted. A candidate organizes to be nominated. It is all his own design. Those who like to feel that the public is on its knees to some majestic personality are kidding no one but themselves.

There is such an exception as Warren G. Harding who was brought forth by the notorious Ohio Gang, perhaps even against his wishes, but that is unusual. Generally if there is a candidate, it is arranged by the candidate. When Nelson Rockefeller says that he prefers to be drafted, he is not telling the truth. He has been an active candidate for two years, working steadily at it and not making much progress perhaps because he would not come out into the open and fight for the nomination, American style. His sudden emergence last week was also not quite true to form, for what amounted to was an attack on the Eisenhower Administration at a time when Khrushchev was still defying and humiliating the President of the United States and when Japanese Socialists and Communists were demonstrating against Eisenhower only because he is President of the United States. The timing was very awkward; the speeches must have been written by a shoo-maker.

Richard Nixon met Rockefeller's attacks with gracious dignity. Rockefeller wanted to know Nixon's position on current questions and Nixon asked him to step up to the television microphone, ask the questions and Nixon would reply. In a debate, Nixon, the trained debater, would have clobbered Rockefeller. I once witnessed just such a scene, when Rockefeller spoke at the Al Smith Memorial Dinner in New York. He was followed by Senator John Kennedy, the Democrat, who brilliantly laid the Republican governor low. When it comes to the give and take of debating, Nixon is as quick, if not quicker than Kennedy. Advisedly, Rockefeller backed away from that.

But we have been watching Richard Nixon for 14 years, as congressman, senator and vice president. He has done deeds, made speeches and given press interviews. Any competent political reporter ought to be able, from his files, to formulate the Nixon creed, which basically is that he is anti-Communist, favors sound money, favors the general domestic program of the Eisenhower administration except that he usually differs from Ezra Taft Benson on the farm problems and that he pursues the Eisenhower foreign policy which is that war is a dangerous and unpleasant commitment.

But saying this is not very important. During the next four years, the president, the Congress and the American people will face many vexing problems, some of them new but growing out of old ones. The pressures from outside the United States will be enormous, not only because of Russia and the relations between Russia and its satellites, but also because of the growth of competition with our economy by the development of the European Common Market and the European Free Trade Association. The next president will also have to deal with the consequences of Soviet Russia moving on to a gold standard, whenever it does that, I believe it will be in 1961.

It will not matter so much whether the next president is a Republican or a Democrat as much as that he should have had a large experience in government and that he should have sound judgment and a mature concept of America's role in the world.

On the Republican side, Richard Nixon has had the unusual opportunity of both legislative and executive experience, in both areas displaying unexpected competence. Nelson Rockefeller has never held national elective office and his participation in federal executive positions has been minor. He is too self-centered and domineering to get along amicably with Congress, the nature of which several presidents have not understood to their disadvantage.

No Republican can, at the next election, run in opposition to President Eisenhower, because he attacks his own house. Governor Rockefeller has done that, an act which makes him an easy mark for the Democrats in the election campaign, and which frightens other Republicans away from him. There will therefore be no blitz for Rockefeller, such as Governor Thomas E. Dewey put on for General Eisenhower.

The egghed endorsement for Kennedy seemed to almost coincide with the word from Michigan that Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams would deliver that state's delegation to Kennedy on either the first or second ballot, which was tantamount to saying that Walter Reuther, president of United Auto Workers and vice president of AFL-CIO, would back Kennedy.

From a reliable source formerly associated with this group, it is learned that they have worked closely with Kennedy since his first successful campaign for the Senate in 1952 against Republican Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, now U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Therefore it was scarcely a surprise recently when the group united in endorsing Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Throb In Groups

Stout Servicing Done By Senate And House Subcommittees

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 16 standing committees of the U. S. Senate, with their offsprings, known as subcommittees, do stout service in legislating, but that is not all. These groups in action are something like a good novel — vivid with personality, thrilling with passion, intriguing with a story line and (this novel's a deep one) brooding with thought. Like a sports writer, the Washington reporter may periodically allow himself to choose outstanding performers of the season. Last year I picked a rookie of the year (Scott of Pennsylvania) from the 18 freshman Senators of the 86th Congress. This time I undertake the inauspicious task of naming a Senate and a House Committee of the Year.

Conveniently, a number of the Senate Committees are self-liquidating as champion performers. For some reason Aeronautics and Space Sciences, which has a hyperactive chairman in Lyndon Johnson and a big, new glamourized hearing room, has done next to nothing in the public ken. Nor could I find, on visiting its quarters, that much was being done behind the scenes.

Another imposing group, Agriculture and Forestry, has stood around like an extinct volcano. A subcommittee headed by Stuart Symington was going to uncover scandals in grain storage, but hasn't clicked. A good guess is that Agriculture's quiescence is political. There are no popular solutions to the farm fiasco, so the Democrats are letting Republican Agriculture Secretary Benson do all the talking — which isn't much.

The Appropriations Committee is too dull to have much personality, although its subcommittees offer some pertinent inquiry by John Stennis, Styles Bridges and Willis Robertson. This has not been a good year (again the political impasse) for Armed Services, Banking and Currency, and Finance. Last year Labor-Public Welfare brought out a Labor bill of sorts, and Interstate-Foreign Commerce did the dirty work in killing the conformation of Commerce Secretary Lewis Strauss — but these two groups have barely been heard from to date in 1960. We can dismiss as minor operatives Public Works, Post Office - Civil Service, District of Columbia and Rules-Administration, although Thomas Hennings, chairman of the last-named Committee, has managed the Clean Elections bill in good style. Contrary to general opinion, Judiciary, under Chairman James Eastland, worked under pressure and took a couple of bugs out of the Civil Rights Act of 1960. The Internal Security Subcommittee of Judiciary has had a series of starts and stops — but none of the Committees yet mentioned has shown any prize-winning form to date.

This brings us down to the finalists. The Committee on Interior-Insular Affairs is quietly handling an obscure matter which could literally revolutionize both American and world economy. The bill (S. 3557 by Lyndon Johnson) has the purpose of energizing the Saline Water Program which has been hanging around for several years. The bill calls for building five demonstration plants — on the East, West and Gulf Coasts, and two at inland locations. The ultimate purpose is the bestowal of fresh water from the oceans and from brackish swamps and lakes upon the lands and peoples that are now scrawny and suffering through poverty and suffering. Although unfinished business, this bill does credit to the members and staff of the Interior and Insular Committee.

But there are three groups which stand head and shoulders above the others. The Senate-Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, chaired by Senator Clinton Anderson, has covered the whole pulsating gamut of this endlessly significant subject: nuclear testing, private enterprise in this new power field, the myriad aspects of atomic fallout, as well as dozens of "atomic" personalities. The mind reels at the knowledge which the conscientious members — like Anderson, Durham, Pastore, Gore, Price, Dwyer, Stenbak — stow away into their heads.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, under J. William Fulbright, drew attention on its probe of the U-2 incident — but this was a soothing syrup operation, conducted under almost vaudeville precautions of secrecy. The real worth of Foreign Relations has been in its catholic curiosity on great matters and its chairman's sophisticated knack of mining petty matters look petty without being snooty in the process.

There's no doubt that Atomic Energy and Foreign Relations have given stellar performances in this waning session, but the grand championship has to go to the Subcommittee on National Policy Machinery, offspring of the Government Operations Committee. The Subcommittee's scope is best digested, I think, in this sentence by Chairman Henry Jackson:

"How can a free society organize to outthink, outplan and outperform totalitarianism and achieve security in freedom?"

To find the long, complicated, continuing answer, Jackson has brilliantly selected key witnesses. They have talked from profound knowledge and experience in science, government, business, military and academic affairs. Perhaps the greatest tribute to the 5-member Subcommittee is that meetings have been attended by at least six non-member Senator-guests with particular interest in the day's work: Mansfield, Stennis, Church, Gore, Bush and Robertson.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Patient's Mind

Says Doctors Should Pay Attention To Emotional Troubles

"Don't you think doctors should pay more attention to a patient's emotional problems?" asks Mrs. E. of Erie, Pa. "It seems that if you don't have a broken leg or something else definitely wrong, the doctor just shrugs it off as 'just nerves.'"

COMMENT: That may have been true in the past — and still too often is true in the present — but I assure you that the medical profession is becoming fully aware of what's in the patient's mind as well as in his body. Psychosomatics (psycho, mind; soma, body) isn't just a fad. The principles on which its management is based will be around as long as medicine is practiced.

A fair estimate is that three out of every four patients who come to the doctor suffer from emotional rather than from physical problems.

When Mrs. Smith comes in complaining of dizziness and fatigue and we find no physical cause, we don't let it rest right there. Her symptoms may be only surface ripples. Below them are the turbulent waves of emotion that the patient is trying to hide — even from her best friend, her doctor.

Sometimes it takes Mrs. Smith two or three visits before she will "loosen up." Not until then will she admit that what's really been bothering her is that she has been wanting to take an outside job to help with family finances. But her husband has stubbornly refused—even though their bills are piling up. He believes a woman's place is in the home (even though they have no children).

She breaks down and tells her doctor that being torn apart by this problem is what's making her nervous. The doctor calls the husband in for a talk. He allows his wife to get a job. Within a month her dizziness and fatigue have vanished.

Chalk it up to recognizing and treating an emotional problem—rather than making an intellectual frontal attack on the dizziness.

Yes, doctors are fully aware of the problem. In fact, recently the American Psychiatric Association and the American Academy of General Practice have cooperated to push forward the management of emotional illness. There are only about 10,000 practicing psychiatrists in the United States. Naturally, they can't carry the full load of emotional illness that so many suffer. Therefore, your family doctor will be able to take care of such disturbances that needn't take up the psychiatrist's time. I hope this answers your question, Mr. E. Granted that heart disease, cancer and the rest deserve the publicity and investigation they have received — it's high time we at least got hold of the "mental-illness tizer" by the tail.

Note to Mr. K. Asheville, N.C.: Of course, "energizers" and "energizers" are all right, if your doctor thinks you need them. But in line with what I have written above, what's even more important is for you to come clean when your doctor questions you.

When you withhold what's really troubling you, all you are doing is strewn obstacles in your doctor's path. If he is the one to help you, don't be prudish or secretive.

No matter how much it hurts (and it often does), to clear the skeletons out of your closet, open the doors wide. You will be surprised at the improvement that is almost sure to follow. Tiredness, headaches, dizziness and indigestion are likely to disappear into thin air.

For Mr. R. R. of Ashland, Ky.: The name of my most recent book on heart disease is: "You Can Increase Your Heart Power." It is published by Doubleday and Co., 375 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. If you will find answers to your questions on cholesterol, exercise and heart failure.

Moral Responsibility

An occasional reminder of moral responsibility is good for all of us, for we are often prone to forget that the world is not made up entirely of material factors. It is the spiritual side of life that raises us above the level of beasts, and we should keep this always in mind.

A case in point is that of Francis G. Powers, pilot of the U-2 spy plane, whom the Soviets are holding as a spy for his May 1 flight deep into Russian territory. There were numerous suggestions that Powers should have ended his own life rather than allow himself to be captured. The Russians claimed Powers carried a poison pin with which he could have committed suicide.

Justifiably, the Roman Catholic weekly, America, said that "suicide is evil whatever the circumstances and the government has no right to order a spy about to be captured to kill himself."

Referring to the U-2 spy plane incident in which the captured American pilot was reported by the Russians to be carrying a poisoned "special pin" for use in case of capture, the Jesuit-edited magazine said:

"If true, apparently the instinct of self-preservation triumphed over the unwritten code of secret agents."

"Suicide is an intrinsically evil act, regardless of circumstances or motives, and cannot be excused by appeals to honor nor hallowed by reasons of state."

"Neither can the spy find a way out of his dilemma by saying that when he kills himself he does so not on his own authority but on that of the state. The state has no competence in the matter of destroying an innocent human life.

"To argue otherwise is to subscribe to the essential principle of totalitarianism."

"If the state can legitimately command an intelligence agent to kill himself, how can we withstand compulsory euthanasia or all the other vagaries of social engineering that make a mockery of the public philosophy of inalienable rights."

Down through the ages there have been some nations in which suicide was upheld as an honorable act. The Orientals, including the Chinese and particularly the Japanese, for countless generations, looked upon suicide as a justifiable way of "saving face."

There is some difference between suicide and throwing oneself into conflict with such reckless abandon that loss of life is virtually certain. In one case the person takes his own life; in the other he merely does not prevent others from taking his life. If combat to the death is excusable in behalf of a cause, the same does not apply to suicide.

Instead of honoring suicide, Americans regard it as absolute defeat. It is the last resort of those who do not have enough courage to live.

Such a procedure in Cuba, which is now overrun with visitors from all of the main Communist countries, is to be expected. In fact, it is a wonder that the court did not order the boys lined up with the others and shot to death.

In a country such as the United States, a practice of this kind is unthinkable and unpardonable.

If a boy or girl is too young at the time he commits a crime to be fully responsible for that crime, he never becomes more responsible for that particular crime, even though he may live to be 100 years old. If he is going to be held and tried as an adult for a crime he committed as a juvenile he might as well be tried as an adult in the first place. This provision simply nullifies the safeguards provided for juveniles.

Under our constitution, no one can be tried for an offense which was not against the law at the time it was committed. Subsequent enactment of a law against this offense does not make him guilty.

Yet we find some states in the United States placing retroactive responsibility upon a juvenile who grows into an adult. Fortunately, Louisiana is not one of those states.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Kennedy Egghead

Massachusetts Senator Drawing Support Of Intelligentsia

The egghead vote has swung to Senator John F. Kennedy for President, and while that may sound humorous, it actually is more important than funny. It may even assure the Democratic nomination for the Massachusetts senator, though there are those who believe it will intensify the opposition against him in certain quarters, meaning some big city leaders who are still cautious in their appraisal of the 43-year-old candidate's ability to win the election, if nominated.

Egghead is a term first applied to Adlai Stevenson, somewhat derisively, when he was described, between 1952 and 1956, as the leader of the intelligentsia in American politics. Since then egghead has become a more or less respected term in political discussions, but not entirely because the former Illinois governor was its figurehead.

Kennedy has been highly regarded by the eggheads since his first election as U.S. senator. He has always been close to the leaders of the group, whose unofficial headquarters are in Boston, and a number of whom are on the faculty of Harvard, of which Kennedy is a 1940 cum laude graduate and now a member of the board of overseers, which runs the university.

The most influential member of this group is Prof. Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. of Harvard, regarded as the official chronicler of the New Deal. In addition to its Harvard elements, this group includes Prof. Henry Steele Commager of Amherst, a well-known historian. It also includes Prof. Samuel H. Beer of Harvard, national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and his predecessor Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Washington attorney, graduate of Harvard college and Harvard Law School, and former government official under Harry S. Truman.

From a reliable source formerly associated with this group, it is learned that Kennedy since his first successful campaign for the Senate in 1952 against Republican Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, now U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Therefore it was scarcely a surprise recently when the group united in endorsing Kennedy for the Democratic nomination.

Their jump to the Kennedy bandwagon was not regarded as a desertion of Stevenson, who is still their favorite, but as a recognition of Stevenson's consistent insistence that he is not a candidate, emphasized by his formal withdrawal of his name from the round robin primary in Oregon, which was later won by Kennedy.

One former member who requests anonymity but who has long been friendly to the candidate says privately that he still believes Kennedy is too greatly under the influence of his father, the very wealthy Joseph P. Kennedy, who has given each of his surviving seven children at least a million dollars. The elder Kennedy, whose legal residence is now Palm Beach, Fla., and who resigned as U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain when it became inevitable that the U.S. would enter World War II, is still regarded as a former isolationist by many Democratic liberals, though most of them concede that his son makes his own decisions.

That is aside from the significance of the egghead declaration for Kennedy, which seems apparent to seasoned political observers familiar with convention trading tactics. In fact, reliable information, has leaked out of huddles in Boston that the understanding under which the agreement was reached is that if Senator Kennedy cannot be nominated by the third ballot, such balloting strength as he and they can still control will be swung to Stevenson, the original egghead candidate.

This envisions all night conferences, battles to hold state delegations in line and the friendly atmosphere which Stevenson will find in Los Angeles, the city of his birth and the center of an area in which he has always been strong, though not strong enough to carry California in two campaigns against Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The egghead endorsement for Kennedy seemed to almost coincide with the word from Michigan that Gov. G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams would deliver that state's delegation to Kennedy on either the first or second ballot, which was tantamount to saying that Walter Reuther, president of United Auto Workers and vice president of AFL-CIO, would back Kennedy.

The next president will also have to deal with the consequences of Soviet Russia moving on to a gold standard, wherever it does that. I believe it will be in 1961.

It will not matter so much whether the next president is a Republican or a Democrat as much as that he should have had a large experience in government and that he should have sound judgment and a mature concept of America's role in the world.

On the Republican side, Richard Nixon has had the unusual opportunity of both legislative and executive experience, in both areas displaying unexpected competence. Nelson Rockefeller has never held national elective office and his participation in federal executive positions has been minor. He is too self-centered and domineering to get along amicably with Congress, the nature of which several presidents have not understood to their disadvantage.

No Republican can, at the next election, run in opposition to President Eisenhower, because he attacks his own house. Governor Rockefeller has done that, an act which makes him an easy mark for the Democrats in the election campaign and which frightens other Republicans away from him. There will therefore be no blitz for Rockefeller, such as Governor Thomas E. Dewey put on for General Eisenhower.

She breaks down and tells her doctor that being torn apart by this problem is what's making her nervous. The doctor calls the husband in for a talk. He allows his wife to get a job. Within a month her dizziness and fatigue have vanished.

Chalk it up to recognizing and treating an emotional problem — rather than making an ineffectual frontal attack on the dizziness.

Yes, doctors are fully aware of the problem. In fact, recently the American Psychiatric Association and the American Academy of General Practice have cooperated to push forward the management of emotional illness.

There are only about 10,000 practicing psychiatrists in the United States. Naturally, they can't carry the full load of emotional illness that so many suf-

Throb In Groups

Stout Servicing Done By Senate And House Subcommittees

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 16 standing committees of the U. S. Senate, with their offsprings, known as subcommittees, do stout service in legislating, but that is not all. These groups in action are something like a good novel — vivid with personality, throbbing with passion, intriguing with a story line and (this novel's a deep one) brooding with thought.

Like a sports writer, the Washington reporter may periodically allow himself to choose outstanding performers of the season. Last year I picked a rookie of the year (Scott of Pennsylvania) from the 18 freshman Senators of the 86th Congress. This time I undertake the inauspicious task of naming a Senate and a House Committee of the Year.

Conveniently, a number of the Senate Committees are self-liquidating as champion performers. For some reason Aeronautical and Space Sciences, which has a hyperactive chairman in Lyndon Johnson and a big, new glamourized hearing room, has done next to nothing in the public ken. Nor could I find, on visiting its quarters, that much was being done behind the scenes.

Another imposing group, Agriculture and Forestry, has stood around like an extinct volcano. A subcommittee headed by Stuart Symington was going to uncover scandals in grain storage, but hasn't clicked. A good guess is that Agriculture's quiescence is political. There are no popular solutions to the farm fiasco, so the Democrats are letting Republican Agriculture Secretary Benson do all the talking — which isn't much.

The Appropriations Committee is too dull to have much personality, although its subcommittees offer some pertinent inquiry by John Stennis, Styles Bridges and Willis Robertson. This has not been a good year (again the political impulse) for Armed Services, Banking and Currency, and Finance. Last year Labor, Public Welfare brought out a Labor bill of sorts, and Interstate Commerce did the dirty work in killing the conformation of Commerce Secretary Lewis Strauss — but these two groups have barely been heard from to date in 1960. We can dismiss as minor operatives Public Works, Post Office - Civil Service, District of Columbia and Rules-Administration, although Thomas Hennings, chairman of the last-named Committee, floor-managed the Clean Elections bill in good style. Contrary to general opinion, Judiciary, under Chairman James Eastland, worked under pressure and took a couple of bugs out of the Civil Rights Act of 1960. The Internal Security Subcommittee of Judiciary has had a series of starts and stops — but none of the Committees yet mentioned has shown any prize-winning form to date.

This brings us down to the finalists. The Committee on Interior-Insular Affairs is quietly handling an obscure matter which could literally revolutionize both American and World economy. The bill (S. 3537 by Lyndon Johnson) has the purpose of energizing the Saline Water Program which has been hanging around for several years. The bill calls for building five demonstration plants — on the East, West and Gulf Coasts, and two at inland locations. The ultimate purpose is the bestowal of fresh water from the oceans and from brackish swamps and lakes upon the lands and peoples that are now scrawny and ornerly through poverty and suffering. Although unfinished business, this bill does credit to the members and staff of the Interior and Insular Committee.

But there are three groups which stand head and shoulders above the others. The Senate-House Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, chaired by Senator Clinton Anderson, has covered the whole pulsating gamut of this endlessly significant subject: nuclear testing, private enterprise in this new power field, the myriad aspects of atomic fallout, as well as dozens of "atomic" personalities. The mind reels at the knowledge which the conscientious members — like Anderson, Durham, Pastore, Gore, Price, Dworshak — stow away into their heads.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, under J. William Fulbright, drew attention on its probe of the U. S. incident — but this was a soothing syrup operation, conducted under almost vaudeville precautions of secrecy. The real worth of Foreign Relations has been in its catholic curiosity on great matters and its chairman's sophisticated knack of making petty matters look petty without being snooty in the process.

There's no doubt that Atomic Energy and Foreign Relations have given stellar performances in this waning session, but the grand championship has to go to the Subcommittee on National Policy Machinery, offspring of the Government Operations Committee. The Subcommittee's scope is best digested, I think, in this sentence by Chairman Henry Jackson:

"How can a free society organize to outthink, outplan and outperform totalitarianism and achieve security in freedom?"

To find the long, complicated, continuing answer, Jackson has brilliantly selected his key witnesses. They have talked from profound knowledge and experience in science, government, business, military and academic affairs. Perhaps the greatest tribute to the 5-member Subcommittee is that meetings have been attended by at least six non-member Senator-guests with particular interest in the day's work: Mansfield, Stennis, Church, Gore, Bush and Robertson.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Patient's Mind

Says Doctors Should Pay Attention To Emotional Troubles

"Don't you think doctors should pay more attention to a patient's emotional problems?" asks Mrs. E. of Erie, Pa. "It seems that if you don't have a broken leg or something else definitely wrong, the doctor just shrugs it off as 'just nerves.'"

COMMENT: That may have been true in the past — and still too often is true in the present — but I assure you that the medical profession is becoming fully aware of what's in the patient's mind as well as in his body. Psychosomatics (psycho, mind; soma, body) isn't just a fad. The principles on which its management is based will be around as long as medicine is practiced.

A fair estimate is that three out of every four patients who come to the doctor suffer from emotional rather than from physical problems.

When Mrs. Smith comes in complaining of dizziness and fatigue and we find no physical cause, we don't let it rest right there. Her symptoms may be only surface ripples. Below them are the turbulent waves of emotion that the patient is trying to hide — even from her best friend, her doctor.

Sometimes it takes Mrs. Smith two or three visits before she will "loosen up." Not until then will she admit that what's really bothering her is that she has been wanting to take an outside job to help with family finances. But her husband has stubbornly refused—even though their bills are piling up. He believes a woman's place is in the home (even though they have no children).

She breaks down and tells her doctor that being torn apart by this problem is what's making her nervous. The doctor calls the husband in for a talk. He allows his wife to get a job. Within a month her dizziness and fatigue have vanished.

Yes, doctors are fully aware of the problem. In fact, recently the American Psychiatric Association and the American Academy of General Practice have cooperated to push forward the management of emotional illness. There are only about 10,000 practicing psychiatrists in the United States. Naturally, they can't carry the full load of emotional illness that so many suffer. Therefore, your family doctor will be able to take care of such disturbances that needn't take up the psychiatrist's time. I hope this answers your question, Mr. E. Granted that heart disease, cancer and the rest deserve the publicity and investigation they have received — it's high time we at least got hold of the "mental-illness tiger" by the tail.

Note to Mr. K. Asheville, N.C.: Of course "tranquilizers" and "energizers" are all right, if your doctor thinks you need them. But in line with what I have written above, what's even more important is for you to come clean when your doctor questions you.

When you withhold what's really troubling you, all you are doing is strewing obstacles in your doctor's path. If he is the one to help you, don't be prudish or secretive.

No matter how much it hurts (and it often does, to clear the skeletons out of your closets) open the doors wide. You will be surprised at the improvement that is almost sure to follow. Tiredness, headaches, dizziness and indigestion are likely to disappear into thin air.

For Mr. R. R. of Ashland, Ky.: The name of my most recent book on heart disease is: "You Can Increase Your Heart-Power." It is published by Doubleday and Co., 375 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. In it you will find answers to your questions on cholesterol, exercise and heart failure.

RUSTON AFFAIR

Peach Festival Events Outlined

RUSTON (Special) — The complete schedule of events for the annual Louisiana peach festival has been released by David P. Colvin, president of the festival association.

Highlights of the annual affair will be a parade, variety show, annual beauty pageant, flower show and peach cobbler contest during the two-day event July 7 and 8.

The parade is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. on Friday and will assemble at the Louisiana Tech parking lot.

The Louisiana Tech music camp which will be in session at the time will provide four individual band units for the parade. Floats, Queen Dixie Gem contestants, and Princess Peach competitors will be featured for the parade.

William H. Baker of Jonesboro, chairman of the parade committee, said any businessmen who wished to sponsor a float could contact him.

The public pageant will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in Howard auditorium. Admission will be one dollar for adults and 50 cents for children.

The finals of the Princess Peach and Queen Dixie Gem contest will be crowned by the outgoing queen, Miss Patricia Kavanaugh of Ruston.

The preceding night, a variety show is slated at Howard auditorium at 7 o'clock with preliminary judging of Princess Peach.

The peach cobbler contest will be held on Thursday afternoon from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Louisiana Tech student center, announces Mrs. Ona Blodgett, chairman of the event. She said that all a person needed to do to enter was to bake a cobbler and bring it to the student center at that time.

The annual "peaches and posies" flower show, under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. D. Murry and Mrs. M. H. Jiles will be held from 3 to 9 p.m. the same day at the Tech student center, it was announced.

Here is a rundown of other activities during the two-day event. Visiting queens registration is scheduled from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Lincoln Motel Courts.

Following the variety show, a swimming party for visiting queens and queen contestants and judges will be held at the home of Jack Ritchie.

Rehearsal for the annual pageant will be held at 2 a.m. on Friday and at 10:30 a.m. The visiting queens will assist the Ruston Lions Club in selling peaches on the street.

A luncheon for the visiting queens and queen contestants will be held at noon on Friday with members of local civic clubs attending. It will take place at the Louisiana Tech student center banquet room.

Following the pageant, a dance honoring the visiting queens and queen contestants will be held at the Ruston Country Club.

Seeking Site For Ruston's Post Office

RUSTON (Special) — W. J. Griffith, real estate officer of the Dallas Region Post Office Department has been spending several days in Ruston looking at possible post office sites, it was disclosed Friday.

Griffith told the Ruston Daily Leader he was unable to make a statement at this time as he still had some property owners to contact relative to possible post office sites.

Griffith said his visit to Ruston was part of the "active consideration" which the post office department said it was giving to a possible new structure in Ruston.

He indicated that he would be visiting Ruston from time to time during the coming month relative to the post office survey.

Griffith said he had studied city maps and zoning ordinances as well as previous surveys of the operations of the local post office in conjunction with his survey.

One of the possible post office sites that was mentioned by informed sources was the back half of the Ruston Junior High school property. Others have been contacted, but a complete list of these is not available.

Winnsboro City Recreational Program Cited

WINNSBORO (Special) — Alderman W. E. "Frenchie" Marioneaux and W. B. Scriber are in charge of Winnsboro's summer recreation program and Marioneaux gives a report on this year's activities as follows.

"We believe the summer recreation program offered by the Town of Winnsboro at no additional taxation is second to none for towns of its size. For one to appreciate what is going on they should visit the parks, swimming pool and other facilities.

"First: the boys baseball program has 250 participating, from ages 8 through 15. We have two of the best lighted, well kept parks to be had.

"Second: our swimming pool is taxed to capacity. Swimming lessons are taught to approximately 350 persons weekly. Of these, 75 comes from Wisner, 65 from Gilbert, 35 from communities other than Winnsboro. Life saving is taught to 20 persons. On swimming days the pool is over - flowed with swimmers.

"Third: tennis — There are 70 persons, teenagers and adults, registered for instructions. With only one court to play on, it is impossible to give the proper training. Players have to wait in line to get to play. Local contractors tell me a new court will cost approximately $1,500. We need this additional court. In the event a sufficient amount of money is not raised the donations will be returned.

"In addition to the above mentioned programs, other forms of recreation are available for both adults and children.

"Without the finances derived from our parking meters, and without the full cooperation of the Sheriff's department, the Mayor, town council and a few other public minded citizens, this recreation project could not exist. Let's all keep this program and back it up with donations for the tennis court. Thanks."

OFFICIAL HOSTESS at the eleventh annual Miss Louisiana pageant at Lake Providence will be Miss Ginger Cone, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. W. B. Cone of the host city. The scholarship-beauty pageant will be held June 30 through July 2.

Stolen Tank-Army. That Is, Arrest Made

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — The Rapides Parish Sheriff's Department has made an arrest in the case of a stolen army tank.

England Air Force Base authorities had reported the tank, an old army vehicle used for bombing practice, missing from its accustomed area at the Camp Claiborne practice range.

Sheriff's deputies and state police checked out junk yards in the area and discovered the tank had been cut up and hauled into one of the yards where it brought $35.91.

Deputies arrested a Pitkin man, 30-year-old Raymond Maricle, in connection with the case and he is being held for investigation of theft.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are questioning him further on the charge since it involved theft of government property.

Novelist Accuses French Authorities

PARIS (UPI) — Novelist Francois Sagan Friday accused French authorities of torturing a 22-year-old Algerian girl to force her to confess that she planted a bomb in an Algiers cafe.

In a copyrighted article in the leftwing weekly L'Express, Miss Sagan said Diamila Boupacha was arrested on Feb. 10 in an Algiers suburb and held in prison illegally until March 1, when formal charges were brought against her. Her trial scheduled for Friday was postponed.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY GRAPEVINE

If Vivien Leigh goes through with her plan to return to London at once, it will mean she'll play "the big scene" with Sir Laurence Olivier — the first confrontation since he decided he preferred young actress Joan Plowright. There's been talk of "fireworks" from Vivien, and a great deal of publicity about her determination to keep her marriage intact — all of which is extremely puzzling to her friends, who've known for years that she's managed to strike up some warm friendships with other chaps, and Sir Larry has been frightfully amiable about the whole thing. It seems incongruous that anybody is getting jealous at this late date.

The next trouble spot in South America will be Venezuela. Many "gringos" are leaving the country because the Red activity there is so rampant they can see the handwriting on the wall. Lana Turner, scheduled to come to New York to ballyhoo her latest film, "Portrait in Black," cancelled the trip so she could stay near her wayward daughter, Cheryl Crane.

Tony Bennett, currently estranged from his wife, is dating jazz singer Annie Ross of the Village Vanguard show. A week and a half ago this column suggested President Eisenhower would be wise to cancel his trip to the Far East, adding "assuming the President could get to Japan and back safely, what will have been accomplished by his visit — more cheap transistor radios?" If anyone wants a play-back on that comment, consider that Sony, the most popular of all Japanese transistors, was listed on the Eisenhower itinerary of plans to be visited. When this came known, Sony stock went up 40 per cent; when the chaotic political situation made it seem that Ike's trip might be cancelled, the firm's stock dropped sharply. Now that the President appears determined to make his Japanese tour, the Sony stock has begun to soar again.

George Shearing has boosted Nancy Sinatra onto a spot on the bill with his fellow jazz pianist, Ahmad Jamal, for the week beginning June 17. And her "Like in Love" album has sold more than 75,000 copies — a remarkable accomplishment for a girl who was toiling as a New York secretary just a few months ago.

When the King and Queen of Nepal died at Bill Beroz's in Greenwich Village, they brought along three bodyguards who sat at an adjoining table. Sam Novak telephoned her mother the other day and said she planned to stay in New York for a few more weeks — she's feeling that much better after her attack of hepatitis. The family had hoped she'd come home so they could help her recuperate.

The battle between the actors and the Broadway producers proved one thing: Anne Bancroft, who is a sensational actress onstage in "The Miracle Worker," ought to flee from any radio microphone. Ad libbing for newscasts, she sounded like a joke Jack Benny telephone operator on one of those years-ago broadcasts. One of the publishing houses is featuring a spooky advertisement for a book on the "secrets of keeping fit." Two of the three movie stars quoted as endorsing the system have been more gravely ill than you'd care to be — with or without exercises.

The marquee advertising of Freedomland on the Roxy Theatre front at 7th Ave. and 50th St. gives all kinds of details, except where the thing is. A newsdealer in that neighborhood says people keep coming up asking him when Freedomland is opening at the Roxy. Jackie Wilson, who did such a fine job with "Night," has cut a new ballad that promises to be another smash — "All My Love," his own composition. The ardent suitor with Carol de Portago at the Golden Steer was Jaime Palino, heir to a Bolivian fortune.

Fidel Castro is about to pass a law forbidding Cubans to own more than one house. Movie land story I refuse to believe: that Charlton Heston had to rent a dinner suit to attend the Academy Award ceremonies. The family of the late Boris Pasternak has inherited nearly $700,000 that has accumulated in a Swiss bank account from royalties on the novel "Dr. Zhivago." The Italian publisher of the book continues to make the deposits; now it's just a question of whether the widow — or anyone — dares claim the money.

Art Ford, who succeeded in interviewing Jackie Chan (Anthony Armstrong — Jones's darling before Princess Margaret) thinks he's also talked her into coming to the United States in September to settle and seek her fortune. One of the trotting tracks near Gotham is due for an intensive housecleaning session.

A newspaperman visiting the set of the new Elia Kazan picture, "Splendor in the Grass," was set straight promptly when he asked for some biographical information on the male lead, Warren Beatty. "Well, to begin with, he's Shirley MacLaine's brother," said the unit press agent — and that set off a hydrogen bomb. Warren flipped. "From now on," was his order. "I want it stated that she's my sister. Most flicker experts believe he'll wind up a bigger star than Shirley."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, the prevention of disease will be an unending process. Personal responsibility will be a major factor in the future. The doctor will be a consultant, not a dictator. The patient will be a partner in the decision-making process. The doctor will be a guide, not a dictator. The patient will be a partner in the decision-making process.

DRESS TOTS SENSIBLY
A Hartford, Conn., woman suggests that children wear less clothing in hot weather. "Most play clothes for pre-teen-aged girls are so designed as to cover most of the body and the child is lucky if she gets sunshine on more than her forearms and legs."

In addition, our reader says, girls' playsets often are warm and uncomfortable. "If every pre-adolescent could play out of doors stripped to the waist, a wonderful sunbath would develop and the youngster would feel cool and comfortable."

From the scientific point of view, the child gets as much good out of exposing his face, arms, and legs to the sun as he would running about in trunks. He can soak up so much ultra-violet and no more. Tanning is nature's way of screening out the excess rays by building up a protective layer of pigment in the skin.

On the other hand, children are more comfortable when romping about in shorts or other light clothing. The body keeps cool by sweating and is cooler when the secretion evaporates from the skin. This is encouraged by wearing lightweight, porous materials.

Children, as well as adults, can suffer from heat exhaustion and sunstroke from too much direct exposure to the sun or excessive heat. Symptoms include nausea, dizziness, paleness, and staggering. Victims of sunstroke are warm, dry, and have a high temperature. They need to be cooled off either in a tub or with cold compresses or ice packs. In heat exhaustion, the child perspires profusely and the body feels cool and clammy. Rest, fluids, and salt are needed.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

I. H. LONG, left, President of the Brownsboro School Board, Brownsboro, Tex., was interviewed by reporter after being treated at an Athens hospital for a cut on his face received during a free-for-all fight that took place at the Brownsboro school. CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

Wife Surprised At Purchasing A Suit

By HARRY JUSTER

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I always thought stories about men being completely dominated by their wives regarding clothing were like most mother-in-law stories — just a myth. Now I am beginning to wonder. While shopping with my husband, I couldn't help but chuckle when I overheard a man in one store say to his wife, "Make up your mind. Do I or don't I like this suit?" My husband asks my opinion but makes the final decision. I didn't know there actually were men like this.

There are, but fortunately so few that they're almost a myth. Most men are open to suggestions from their wives. However, like your husband, the final decision is theirs. Which is the way it should be.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Please tell me if a short, stocky (but not fat) man should wear bow ties. I just love bows and for Father's Day our youngsters plan to give a few to their Dad who fits this description. I've been told they will make him look shorter and fatter. We're holding off buying this present until hearing from you.

Don't hold off, providing the summer styled bows in solid shades or neat small patterns are in the box when he opens it. He'll look well in them. It's the "king" styles in big bold designs that tend to cut a short man's height as they stand out too prominently.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband and I are having a heated argument about his not wearing a hat during the summer. He sees no point to it. Could you answer this in your column? I am sure other women readers have gone through the same thing with their men and would also welcome your comments.

If he'll use his head he'll wear a hat. He may enjoy the hot sun's rays for their tanning qualities but they're tough on the scalp. Also, dry, dust-carrying winds do the hair no good. If these "protective" factors don't pinch your case, ask him which

GRAFTED EARDRUM
J. W. writes: Can an eardrum be grafted from a piece of skin taken from behind the ear?

REPLY
Yes. This skin grafting procedure (tympanoplasty) has been used in persons who have had chronic ear infection that destroyed the drum. But before anything is done, the infection must be brought under control. Otherwise the graft may not hold or the new drum will rupture as it did originally.

PHYSICAL THERAPY
R. H. R. writes: What is physical therapy?

REPLY
Treatment of disease, injuries, or defects with physical agents such as light, heat, cold, water, baths, or electricity. Massage, manipulation, exercise, and mechanical devices also are used in physical therapy. This regimen is in contrast to psychotherapy or the use of drugs.

BLEEDING AND PROTRUSION
Mrs. B. F. writes: How does a person know if he has internal piles?

REPLY
The two most common symptoms are bleeding and protrusion. A medical examination would be needed to confirm the diagnosis.

Today's Health Hint
Don't expect marriage to solve your emotional problems. Looks better — a smart outfit topped off by good-looking hair or by a cool, good-looking straw hat.

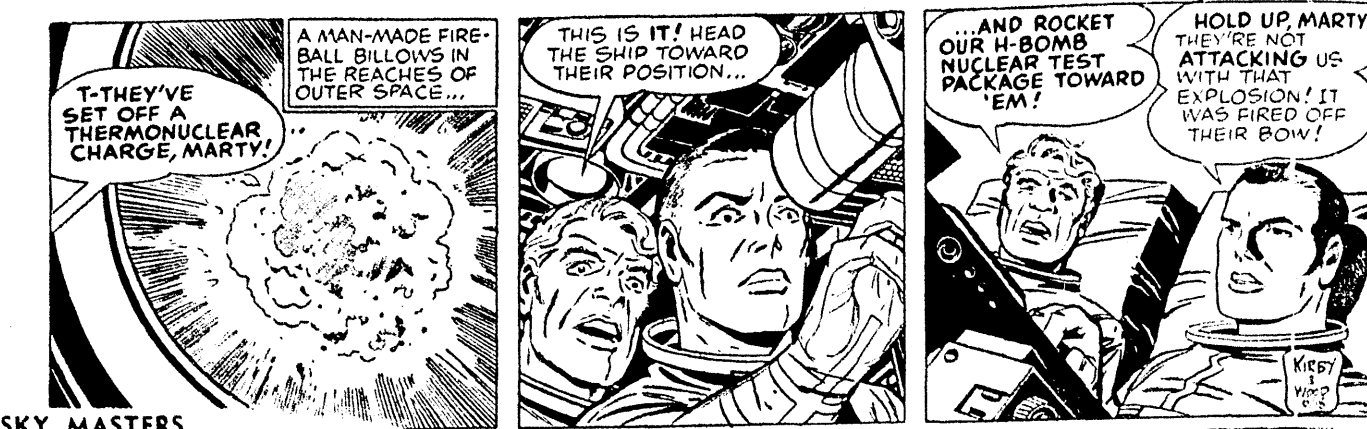

DEAR MR. JUSTER: As a senior officer in the Armed Forces, I feel you would be doing our younger officers a great service by advising when sport jackets can be used at social functions. It's my opinion that they should be limited to daytime affairs and are not usually worn after 6 p.m. Army Officer

There's no curfew time for sport jackets. The deciding factor is the nature of the functions. For informal country club affairs, patio barbecues or other casual gatherings, daytime and evening, a sport coat is perfectly in order. At more formal functions, whether it's 9 a.m. or 2 p.m., the civilian uniform of the day is a suit.

SWEEPING STATEMENT

Rocky Proposes Race Equality Plan

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. should guarantee the following for every American:

- The right to vote.
- Equal job opportunities.
- Equal educational opportunities.
- The right to live where he pleases.
- Equal opportunities for government employment and use of government facilities.

Yankee pitching coach Ed Lopat appeared in 12 American League games in which his team failed to score a run.

Nixon responded with an offer to answer Rockefeller's questions on television, but the governor declined.

Rockefeller chose as the forum for his desegregation program the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A., Inc.

Rockefeller said he found it "unreasonable" that the leading Republican presidential contender had decided to make his views known only if he were to be nominated.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Solon Says Red Ship Unloading Men In Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.) said Friday intelligence reports show that Russian cargo ships going to Cuba for sugar are "unloading cargo and professional Reds from behind the Iron Curtain."

Asserting that Cuba has become

"more of a Russian satellite than Poland," Flood urged that the United States reactivate a special Navy squadron to patrol the Caribbean.

SWEEPING STATEMENT

Rocky Proposes Race Equality Plan

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Friday night proposed a sweeping program for across-the-board racial equality.

The New York governor, who has made himself available for a Republican presidential draft, outlined his five-point desegregation program a little more than a week after asking Vice President Richard M. Nixon to give his views on this and other subjects.

Rockefeller issued a statement June 8 saying he found it "unreasonable" that the leading Republican presidential contender had decided to make his views known only if he were to be nominated.

Nixon responded with an offer to answer Rockefeller's questions on television, but the governor declined.

Rockefeller chose as the forum for his desegregation program the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A., Inc., a Negro church.

TWO SERIOUSLY

Jackson Wreck Injures 36

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A cross-country Trailways bus approaching Jackson in a pre-dawn rain Friday swerved to avoid an oncoming automobile and tumbled down a 30-foot embankment. Four cars wrecked as motorists stopped to help.

Hospital authorities counted 36 injured, including 11 hospitalized. The others were released after emergency room treatment.

Two were hurt seriously. They were bus driver D. W. Arnold, 44, of Shreveport, La., and passenger Jose Compos, 26, of Oklahoma City.

Motorists joined the eight ambulances in shuttling the victims the 13 rain-slick miles to Baptist and University hospitals here. The injured—some sitting, some lying—jammed the corridors as they awaited treatment.

One passenger, Pvt. John Rowland of Mumfords, Tenn., shirtless and wearing a bloody head bandage, searched the hospital entrance vainly for the man who brought him.

Some of the injured, interviewed while awaiting treatment, gave this version of the accident:

Most of the passengers on the Los Angeles-to-Miami, Fla., bus were sleeping. The others were preparing to disembark in Jackson, only minutes away.

Suddenly, the driver swerved the bus to miss an oncoming car that was passing another. The heavy vehicle skidded on the slick pavement and tumbled down a 30-foot embankment, scattering passengers, clothing and other personal effects over a 50-yard area and finally landing upright across a ditch.

Jaycee Model Plane Meet Slated Sunday

Model plane flyers will assemble at Selman Field Sunday for the annual model plane contests sponsored by the West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce and under the supervision of the Academy of Model Aeronautics.

Ned R. Newman, Jaycee model plane committee chairman, said the competition will include speed, stunt, combat and scale model contests.

The Twin City Aero Modelers, the local AMA affiliate, is taking part. The 23 - member club is headed by Mike Windham.

State model plane championships are held each year under the auspices of the AMA and winners receive expense - paid trips to the national contests. College scholarships are awarded as prizes.

More than a thousand contestants take part in the nationals sponsored by the U. S. Navy.

Some 50 to 60 persons will compete in the local contests on Father's Day with trophies being presented to three winners in each contest.

The Jaycees will help manage and judge the contests.

Giger Funeral Scheduled Today

Funeral services for T. C. Giger, of 107 North Pryce, who died Thursday night in a local hospital following a long illness, will be conducted 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Mount Vernon Baptist Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The Rev. Robert Peek will officiate at services, and burial will be under direction of Peters Funeral Home.

Mr. Giger was 56, had been a resident of Monroe for 13 years, and a member of the Pine Grove Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Helen Giger, Monroe; one son, Charles Giger, West Monroe; one brother, Arthur Giger, Miss.

and one grandchild. Pallbearers will be C. E. Bamberg, Ezra Walters, John D. Conville, George Bonner, L. Gardner and Raymond Boul.

SUMMIT, RIOTS

President's Views On Visit Outlined

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP)—President Eisenhower is known to believe that Red China and the Soviet Union are split on basic strategy but that both decided to wreck his overseas visits this summer.

The President believes the Red Chinese may have instigated the bloody Tokyo riots to block a spectacular welcome for him on his tour.

Peiping's strategy, in Eisenhower's view, was similar to that of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev who, the President believes, blew up the mid-May Paris summit conference rather than risk potentially embarrassing acclaim for Eisenhower on the now-cancelled post-summit tour of the Soviet Union.

The President's views became known Friday as he neared Formosa.

Even though Red Chinese and Soviet leaders both decided to undercut his unbroken string of personal triumphs on goodwill tours, Eisenhower believes there are considerable differences between them on how to deal with the West.

Eisenhower feels such differences are all to the good but not a major split of the kind that the West could exploit to divide the Communist world at this time.

He also holds these views:

1. Despite the fact the Tokyo visit was washed out by what the President has termed professional Communist agitation, there are benefits to be gained from personal diplomacy by an American president.

2. The warm reception he received in Manila offset to some extent the negative aspects of elimination of the Tokyo visit.

3. The Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders are extremely unhappy about the massive receptions given him in his ranging travels in the last 10 months.

4. Summit conferences will continue although he does not like them.

Fine Arts Festival Set At Northeast

The fifth annual Fine Arts Festival for high school students opens Monday at Northeast Louisiana State College.

A special feature will be a program in jazz music under the direction of John F. Sawyer, assistant professor of music at the college. A jazz ensemble will be formed and will use original music by a prominent jazz arranger of New York designed for high-school players.

A series of lectures on the history of jazz and various styles will also be offered.

The two - week festival, which ends July 1, begins with registration from 8 to 10 a.m. Monday. Applications will be accepted through registration. Additional information is available from the office of the dean of the division of fine arts at Northeast.

Classes in band, orchestra and chorus, as well as private instruction in all instruments, are being offered in the music division. Jewelry making, sketching, oral interpretation and play production will be offered for those interested in fine arts and dramatics.

Special concerts and lectures by faculty and guest artists will be a part of the educational and entertainment program for the festival. Monday night the students will hear the nationally prominent pianist, Leroy Anspach, in recital.

Sawyer, the director of the jazz program, received a B.M. from the University of Mississippi and M.M. from George Peabody College and has studied privately with William Vacchiano. He has had extensive professional experience with the Nashville and Houston symphonies, the Mantovani and Ballet Theater Orchestras, the Radio City Music Hall Symphony, the Robert Shaw Chorale, Sadlers Wells Ballet, Stan Kenton, Hal McIntyre and others.

Count Against Actor Killed

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Municipal Judge Adolph Alexander Friday dismissed misdemeanor charges of vagrancy and lewd conduct against TV actor William Talman and seven others arrested in a raid last March 13 on a West Hollywood apartment.

The judge said he acted "in the interests of justice," adding the prosecution had failed to prove its case. He said no testimony had been offered which showed the defendants had violated the penal code.

Talman, 45, who after his arrest was fired from his role as the district attorney on the Perry Mason show, said he was "overjoyed" by the dismissal of the charges.

ARC Vice Chairman

The National American Red Cross recently announced the reappointment of Harry H. Roland Harriman at the National Red Cross Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

Princess, Jones Soon To Be Home

By NORMAN RUNNION LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret and her husband neared home from their honeymoon cruise Friday.

The royal yacht Britannia, which has carried the princess and Antony Armstrong-Jones on their six-week Caribbean honeymoon, appeared off lands end Friday morning. It is due to dock at Portsmouth at 8:40 a.m. e.d.t. Saturday.

Meanwhile, a Trinidad doctor came up with the latest entrant in the guessing game of titles for the newlyweds.

Dr. A.J. Waterman, a colored doctor from Trinidad, told members of the British Medical Association at Torquay Friday, "We understand that someone is to be created duke and duchess of the Caribbean."

His remark came just after he had spoken of the honeymoon trip taken by the princess and her husband.

He added that "I have no specific information," and went on to say "of course, it may be wishful thinking."

There never has been such a title. Most observers doubted there ever would be.

Former Ouachita Man Wins Essay On Dentistry

Dr. O. K. Bailey Jr., formerly of Sterlington, a recent graduate from Loyola Dental School, was awarded a plaque from the university for the most outstanding essay in a contest sponsored among dental students.

Dr. Bailey was selected for membership into the Omnicorn Kappa Upsilon Dental Honorary Fraternity and the C. Victor Vignes Odontological Society and was also a recipient of the Pedonotive Award, which is given each year by the faculty to the student exhibiting the greatest interest and proficiency in the care of young patients.

In his elementary, high school and college days, he was active in athletics and student activities.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Bailey, Sterlington. Dr. Bailey lives in Shreveport and practices in the Braswell Clinic.

Missile Strike Reaches Accord

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An 11-day-old strike which crippled or halted construction of facilities to launch the mighty Atlas, only American long range missile ready for war, was settled yesterday.

Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. and the International Assn. of Machinists announced an agreement was hammered out in talks extending to 3 a. m. Terms were not disclosed. The pact is subject to approval in IAM membership meetings the next 10 days.

New Editors Named For School Paper

A sophomore journalism major from West Monroe, Marilyn Burson, has been named editor of the student newspaper at Northeast Louisiana State College for the summer.

William Street, a sophomore from Crowley, is news editor for the Pow Wow, which will appear every other Friday this summer. Other newly named summer staff members are, Mike Parkerson, a freshman from Monroe, associate news editor and circulation manager, and Ted McDaniel, a senior from Pineville, advertising manager.

Miss Burson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burson, Harrell Road in West Monroe, has been a reporter for the Pow Wow for the past two semesters. She is a member of the Northeast chorus and was a contestant in the Miss Northeast beauty pageant.

Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Street, Crowley, is majoring in accounting and is a member of the Northeast Student Council.

Parkerson, who is majoring in speech and minoring in journalism, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Parkerson, 1902 Myrtle, Monroe. In high school Parkerson took part in dramatics, debate and newspaper activities.

McDaniel is the son of Mrs. Maggie McDaniel, 1710 Military Hwy., Pineville. He is majoring in agriculture and is president of Sigma Tau Gamma and Circle K at Northeast, is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and is secretary of Demster agriculture society.

Village Returns To Quiet After Shooting Melee

BROWNSBORO, Tex. (AP)—This village became a sleepy farm community once more Friday in the wake of stormy school board melee which cost one man his life and injured seven others.

Texas Rangers and state patrolmen kept cautious watch for any signs of further outbreak in a 20-year-old school feud dividing Brownsboro, an east Texas town of 600 people, into two partisan camps.

Mayor John Saunders reported conditions "about normal" on the heels of Thursday night's shooting and fist-fighting, which broke up a meeting of school trustees.

Thurman Jackson, 42, manager of a lumber firm, died from bullet wounds.

Some said the fight broke out just after Jackson demanded the trustees itemize part of the bills they had presented. Others attributed the battle among 30-odd persons to school board refusal to review the firing of 14 Negro teachers, as demanded by an unidentified Negro man in the audience.

Dist. Atty. Jack Hardee charged Dr. Charles Rahm, an osteopath who is school board secretary and former Brownsboro mayor, with murder. The district attorney also filed complaints accusing Rahm and two others of assault with intent to murder, and seven men of assault and battery.

Navy, Air Force Bump Heads

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—The Navy and the Air Force — friendly enemies for a long time — bumped heads again Friday in a dispute over whether the Navy's "hide-and-seek" research balloon really has been found after all.

First Fleet Headquarters in San Diego said it was not sure that a radar contact first picked up Thursday some 180 miles off the coast was the football field-sized balloon that has led Naval scientists on a merry chase across the country.

But the Air Force said one of its pilots, flying an F-101 jet fighter out of Oxnard, Air Force Base, Calif., definitely saw the 40-story high runaway sphere.

The Navy announced triumphantly Thursday that it had found the balloon—lost to radar contact since Monday — and said two F8U fighter planes from Moffett Field, Calif., had seen the research sphere which is gathering information on cosmic rays.

The Navy in San Diego said Friday, however, that the reported sightings "were premature." The carrier USS Coral Sea was moved into the area about 180 miles off the coast Friday to serve as search headquarters for the delinquent balloon that was supposed to come down in Houston, Tex., June 7. It was launched two days earlier from Brunswick, Ga.

Ditmar, Boyer Fire Yanks To 4-2 Win Over Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Art Ditmar pitched and Cletis Boyer batted the fired-up New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night before a crowd of 43,820.

Ditmar limited the defending champions to seven hits and one earned run. Boyer slugged a two-run homer off starter Billy Pierce in the second inning, doubled in the seventh and came home on a looping single by Ditmar.

Boyer's homer touched off a surprising sparkler display in the Yankee dugout. Manager Casey Stengel and several of his players lit up a dozen or more and then tossed them into the air.

The victory was the 10th in the last 12 games for the Yankees and gave them a one game lead over second-place Cleveland which dropped a 3-1 decision to Boston.

Chicago's first run came in the fourth inning when Minnie Minoso and Rod Sievers both singled to put runners on first and third with none out. Ditmar retired Gene Freese and Al Smith on pop flies and then got Sherm Lollar to bounce to third. Boyer threw to second in an attempt to force Sievers but his throw was high and Minoso came in to score.

The final Chicago run came in the ninth on a triple by Freese and a single by Smith.

Billy Cannon Assured Of LA Welcome

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All-America halfback Billy Cannon was assured Friday he would be welcomed back to the Los Angeles Rams if they win their first game in the new stadium.

The trial came to an end and Judge William J. Lindberg said he would hand down a decision Monday.

Winding up arguments, a Ram attorney said the ex-Louisiana State University star can, if he chooses, report to the Rams' training camp in July, get his $10,000 bonus and $10,000 first year salary, plus $15,000 for each of the next two years.

At adjournment, the Rams' general manager, Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, a great end with the team for nine years, stepped over to the defense table and shook hands with Cannon.

"I just told him goodbye in the event he doesn't stay over until Monday," Hirsch said.

Cannon said he hasn't decided whether he will return to Baton Rouge over the weekend.

Cannon, through his attorneys, has said he will not play for the Rams regardless of the outcome of the suit.

John C. McHose, a Ram attorney, in his closing remarks, said it was his opinion that Cannon could also keep the $10,000 bonus and expensive automobile which he received from Houston millionaire K. S. (Bud) Adams Jr. for signing contracts with him.

Jack Schwartz, one of Cannon's attorneys, repeated claims there is no legal contract in existence with the Rams.

He pointed out Cannon never endorsed nor cashed the $10,000 Ram check and he was never sent copies of the signed contracts stretched over three years.

LOE WINS, RIVERS FALLS

Still No Medalist In State Amateur

BENTON, La. (AP)—After 54 holes of golf over a three-day period, the Louisiana state men's amateur golf tournament is still closed to having a medalist than it was when play started last Wednesday.

Seventeen-year-old Robert Flagler, an ex-professional-turned-amateur, Tommy Morrow tied Friday for the third straight day in their battle for the medal. Both toured the 6,126-yard Palmetto Country Club course in Lumberville.

Flagler's round enabled him to advance to the quarterfinals of the championship flight as he defeated Pat Netherthorn, Shreveport, 4 and 3. Morrow's win put him into the semifinals of the championship consolation. He was eliminated from the championship flight in Thursday's opening round.

The two Shreveporters will attempt to break the deadlock Saturday. Flagler will meet Ronnie Melancon of Baton Rouge in the championship quarterfinals. Morrow plans in the afternoon round. Quarterfinal rounds in the championship flight will be played Saturday morning; semifinals Saturday afternoon.

The two finalists will meet in a 36-hole match Sunday.

Second-round results: John O'Connell, New Orleans, defeated B. J. Almond, Bossier City, 1 up.

Burt Burdick, Baton Rouge, defeated Mickey Netherthorn, Shreveport, 2 and 1.

Robert Flagler, Shreveport, defeated Pat Netherthorn, Shreveport, 4 and 3.

Ronnie Melancon, Baton Rouge, defeated Earl Tullos, Bogalusa, 1 up in 20 holes.

Lamar Loe Jr., Tallulah, defeated Charles de la Vergne, New Orleans, 3 and 2.

Robert Blewett, Shreveport, defeated Jackie Rivers, Monroe, 2-

up.

Sammy Love, Shreveport, defeated Dickey Myer, Baton Rouge,

2-up.

John Bird Jr., Shreveport, defeated John Webster, Shreveport,

5 and 4.

Quarterfinal pairings:

O'Connell and Burdick; Flagler

and Melancon; Loe and Blewett;

Love and Bird.

Clayton Cole of Monroe won his championship consolation bracket match over D. Y. Smith by default, while Bastrop's Don Sims defaulted to V. M. Curry in the same flight.

Louisiana Tech football and golf coach Joe Aillet swept into the finals of the second flight consolation, winning over Frank Per-

'Big Fight' Shifts Into Big Town

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The "Big Fight" moved out of the training camps and into town Friday, where the promoter of Monday's heavyweight title scrap predicted a crowd of 35,000 and a gate of $800,000.

Ingemar Johansson, the champion, relaxed at his Grossinger, N.Y., camp, letting the strength "flow back into my bones." He planned to come into New York Sunday to finish his five-day resting period.

Floyd Patterson, burning with an intense desire to win back the title he lost last June 20, still worked away at his hideaway in Newtown, Conn., where he has boxed 84 rounds in a long training grind.

Patterson went two rounds with Bjorne Lingaas, the Norwegian who beat Johansson in the amateurs in 1952. He concentrated on a body attack and switched to the head in the final minute of the second round. Earlier he had done 4 miles of roadwork. He will run again Saturday but no more boxing until Monday.

Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, the veteran promoter who acts as managing director of the Feature Sports Inc., predicted the fight would draw 35,000 and a gate of $800,000. He said it could top that fight with a break from the weatherman, whose general long range forecast called for mostly fair Sunday and Monday. Fugazy said the advance sale was over $500,000.

The fall that almost wags the do in this promotion is the closed circuit corporation (TelePromp-Tor) that operates the supplementary rights such as theater television, radio, and movies. There are 220 closed circuit outlets in 160 cities with 700,000 seats. If only half the seats are filled at prices ranging from $3 to $10, the closed circuit of $1,400,000 set for the second Ray Robinson-Carmen

Solon Claims Majors Are Monopolistic

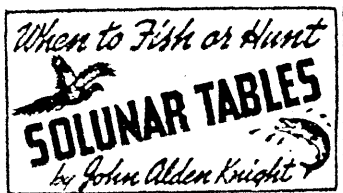

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) complained Friday that the American and National leagues control major league baseball "in a monopolistic manner."

"There is no such thing as free enterprise in major league baseball," O'Mahoney said in a statement for the Senate urging passage of the dispute professional sports bill.

The bill would make the business aspects of organized baseball subject to antitrust laws, and provide for unrestricted draft of players numbering more than 40 controlled or owned by any major league club.

O'Mahoney's remarks were in a statement of views to be filed with the Senate next week as part of the Senate Judiciary Committee's formal report on the bill.

The committee has voted to send the bill to the Senate without a recommendation either for or against its passage. It gave committee members the right to file individual views.

The schedule of Solunar Periods as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Basilio match could be topped. Of course, there will be no regular television except in a few scattered cities on a community antenna system.

Despite the decisive ending of the first fight in which Johansson dropped Patterson seven times while stopping him in the third round, the champion was not an overwhelming favorite to do it again. The odds reportedly were 7 to 5 in Johansson's favor in man-to-man betting. Many thought the price would go up before ring time.

The results of a preliminary poll of newsmen arriving in town for the bout showed a heavy swing to Johansson. Last year Patterson was the top-heavy choice as the 5 to 1 favorite against a challenger few of the writers had seen except for his unimpressive training workouts. The memory of Ingo's punch and Patterson's early destruction, coupled with improvement in training sessions by the Swede, apparently promoted the switch which was running about 3 to 1 in his favor.

Rigney May Be Replaced By O'Doul

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The News-Call Bulletin said Friday Bill Rigney may be replaced as manager of the San Francisco Giants before the first of next week.

Roger Williams, sports editor of the newspaper, wrote: "A possible successor is Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, for 17 years manager of the San Francisco Seals (of the Pacific Coast League). O'Doul's name came into prominence when it was learned there is little chance of Leo Durocher, former manager of the Giants, receiving the appointment."

Williams wrote he reached Stoneham by telephone and Stoneham "denied a change in management would be made immediately, but refused to give Rigney a vote of confidence."

Stoneham told The Associated Press in Phoenix, "Williams has just about the list of it in that sentence."

Stoneham added, however, "I'd rather not deny or confirm right now whether there will be a change made in the Giants' management. And I couldn't say when an official announcement will be made. That's about all there is to say right now."

O'Doul has served as batting instructor for the Giants in spring training camp.

Williams said Rigney may be replaced "before the team heads on its east road trip Monday."

Williams related in an early edition that Durocher appeared to be "the most likely successor" to Rigney, in his fifth season as Giants' manager. In a later edition, Williams said: "Durocher visited Stoneham here during the Milwaukee series last weekend but a close source said the Giants' owner never will rehire 'The Lip.'"

Brown Spurns Boxing, Signs Cleveland Pact

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fullback Jimmy Brown, who spent his first three seasons in professional football rewriting the record books, will be back at the same old stand with the Cleveland Browns next season.

Any hope by Cleveland's opponents that Brown was quitting football—it was rumored that he'd take up boxing—ended Friday when the Browns announced he had signed a new two-year contract. An option clause in the agreement binds him to the Browns for still a third year.

One estimate placed his salary at around $30,000 a year.

Barbato Named Golf Assn. Head

BENTON, La. (AP)—Luca Barbato, Lafayette, was elected president of the Louisiana State Golf Assn. for 1961-62 at a business meeting here Friday.

Other officers elected were B. P. Majors, New Orleans, vice president; Robert Brock, Bogalusa, secretary, and Jack Hebert, Opelousas, treasurer.

Next year's state amateur tournament will be held at the Sherwood Forest Country Club in Baton Rouge while the 1962 tournament has been awarded the Alexandria Golf and Country Club.

Friday's election was held at the Palmetto Country Club in connection with the current state tournament.

The three rookies with the New York Yankees are pitchers. They are Bill Short, Johnny James and John Gabler.

$50,000 Handicaps Top Race Program

Two $50,000-added events top the nation's racing program Saturday, with three other events confined to 3-year-olds contributing spice to the day's competition.

The Bowling Green Handicap over the Belmont Park grass course and the Inglewood Handicap at Hollywood Park are the big money races. The 3-year-old events are the $35,000-added Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware Park, the $40,000-added Chicagoan at Washington Park and the $15,000-added Ohio Derby at Thistledown.

The $20,000 Regret Handicap for fillies and mares at Monmouth Park and the $10,000 Suffolk Downs Turf 'Cap complete the day's major events.

Fleet Nasrullah, recent winner of the $100,000 Californian, will carry top weight of 127 pounds in the 1 1/16 mile Inglewood Handicap, with Bagdad (121), Sea Orbit (118), Seaneen (114) and Eddie Schmidt (111) also in the field of eight.

Claiborne Farm's Danee, with top weight of 123 pounds, looms as the favorite in the Bowling Green Handicap in which 13 grass specialists will compete over the 1 1/8 mile route. If thirteen start, it would bring the gross to $30,400, with the winner's share $38,010.

Victoria Park, winner of the Queen's Plate in Canada last week, will be favored to turn in his first U.S. victory of the year in the Leonard Richards Stakes.

Cummins-Scott Wedding Today Follows Rehearsal Dinner, Informal Party

Concluding the many festivities given to honor Miss Betty Scott and Jay Cummins, whose wedding will be solemnized at five o'clock this afternoon in the Parkview Baptist Church, was a buffet dinner party Friday evening following the rehearsal for the wedding.

Hosts for the event, held at the 5 C Ranch, were Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Cummins, parents of the prospective groom, and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Woods.

A wedding ring theme was used in decorations throughout the spacious farm house, hanging from a Ming tree at one end of the mantel were wedding rings, while at the other end were marble love birds. In one corner magnolia blossoms were banked around a three-tiered fountain from which water flowed. Behind the fountain, on which was a large gold-colored rattle, were climbing vines.

Preceding dinner, guests chatted informally on the back screened porch, where they looked out on the back garden, illuminated with sparkling candlelight. Down the driveway more candles glittered.

Guests were seated for dinner at white damask-covered tables which formed the shape of an "H." At intervals down the length of the table were five arrangements, each of pink sweetheart roses and white feverfew surrounding two satin-covered wedding rings which stood upright on styrofoam. Carrying out the bridal theme were place cards decorated with lilies of the valley and hanging silver wedding rings. On the buffet was a crystal bowl filled with pink zinnias and shasta daisies.

Hanging over the buffet was a very large gold-colored rattle.

Invited to the event were Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Holloway, Joe Cummins, Miss Sue Ann Kiper, Tommy Trawick, Miss Linda Woods, Jimmie Woods, Miss Jenny Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Crowley, Jack Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Keith Jr., Tommy Scott, Billy Holloway, Mrs. Mary Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frazier, Sheryl Ann Frazier, Robin Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Swanson Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Grover Shamblin, Mrs. Herbert Ball, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Partlow, S. S. Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkerson, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gates.

INFORMAL PARTY

A yellow and white theme was used throughout the Edgewater Gardens home of Mrs. B. M. McKoin when she entertained Thursday morning with her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Swanson Jr. of Baton Rouge, at an informal party complimentary to Miss Scott.

The honoree was presented with a white carnation corsage, a gift of her hostesses.

During the party, guests participated in a game of unscrambling the names of famous lovers. Winning the prize for the evening was Mrs. Guy Holloway.

Luncheon was served to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Ed Crowley, Miss Myrtle Rogers, Mrs. Tom Monk, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. P. Massey, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. Frank Spivey, Miss Nelle Rainey, Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. B. E. Barham, Mrs. Shelby White, Mrs. J. W. Cummins and Mrs. T. H. Woods.

Bunker Hill Swarms With Sightseers

BOSTON (UPI) — Bunker Hill swarmed with sightseers and photographers Friday when Charles Sumner's 150th birthday was celebrated. The battle was fought in 1825 and the battle site was the only place where the British could not take the city.

In a speech at the ceremonies, Thomas J. Fleming, author of "Now We Are Enemies," a new book on Bunker Hill, said "the sense of humiliation experienced at Bunker Hill is a good thing for Americans of 1960 to contemplate."

"Bunker Hill has this to say to us: we are not invincible," he said. The observance pays homage to patriots who have fought for freedom one night on Breed's Hill, a shoulder of Bunker Hill, and the day held of three charges by the British, leaving only 26 survivors.

The colonists' ammunition ran out.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Prepare For Presence Of Children In Summer

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELPRED

Take your children to the library and get books they can read or you can read to them. This is a good way to spend a hot afternoon when it is too hot for outdoor play. For as many meals as you can outdoors. This is less formal and perhaps as much work, but a different type of work. Food tastes better out in the open and you home.

Households ought to be closed to this hot weather for a summer. The same all summer. Mothers are to have the children in the house to study their own work in every possible way.

Since all the ornaments. Take down curtains if they keep away the cooling breezes and make the rooms seem better. Put away the hot pillows on the davenport. Use a plastic, colorful cover on the dining-room table and don't be ashamed to use paper plates and napkins often. There is going to be more washing anyway, to keep clothes clean, and there is need to minimize this hot task.

Give each child some task to do before he begins his day of play. He'll enjoy his leisure more if he doesn't have too much of it. Even leisure can pall on one if that is all there is in a day. He'll get used to saying to his friends, "My Mom says I have to wash the porch" or the dishes or make the beds, etc.

When each individual has less to do outdoors can spend more time with their children. This is a good time to get acquainted with your city and to take your children to see the fine parks, the nearby bodies of water, the fine buildings, the art museums, the zoo, whatever your city has to offer. And you can investigate nearby caves too. Take time to read a good book each week.

This is a good way to spend a hot afternoon when it is too hot for outdoor play.

For as many meals as you can outdoors. This is less formal and perhaps as much work, but a different type of work. Food tastes better out in the open and you home.

Hurry-Up Marriage Would Add To Problem

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please give some advice to two families, a 15-year-old girl "in trouble" and her boyfriend, 17, before everyone goes mad. The girl is expecting in September, she can't turn to her mother for help because the mother is in the state hospital for the mentally ill. The boy is from a poor, large family. His mother is past 60 and in very poor health, and couldn't care for a baby if she wanted to. In addition to which the families oppose the marriage because they are of different religions.

The teen-agers want to marry and want to keep the baby. The boy wants to quit school and enlist in the service so he can have money for the baby's support. But I am wondering what kind of mother this 15-year-old child will make, and what chance will this couple have for happiness? Also, is it fair to the baby? What, in your opinion, should be done?

FRIEND OF BOTH FAMILIES

DEAR FRIEND: The emotional maturity of a couple, not their age, should determine their readiness for marriage. In this case, they appear to be far from it. I suggest the girl go to a home for unwed mothers and find a foster home for her child. When she reaches 16 and the baby's father can provide for a family, they can marry in most states if they still want to. A hurry-up don't have to eat a constant diet of hamburgers, viennas and other "fast" foods. Cook and bake early in the morning when it is cool and reopen the food in foil.

You don't need an elaborate cook time, you can concoct a usable one from a circle of friends, a large Air toaster and some charcoal for broiling. The children will do half the work—eating outdoors is so much more fun.

The real difficulty is to alter the rigid patterns of working and cooking which have kept you in their grasp all year. If you can change those you can have an interesting and restful summer. (Send type of work, food tastes better out in the open and you home.)

YOUR PROBLEMS

Girl With Pretty Face Uses Friend's Wit

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My girl friend and I work in the same office. I am prettier than she is, (not bragging, just stating a fact) and she is better at witty conversation.

A certain fellow who works in the office has shown an interest in me. He buys me peanuts, winks when he passes my desk and we've been exchanging cute little notes. My witty girl friend has been writing the notes for me, and I admit she comes up with lines I could never think of.

Now the fellow has asked me for a date and I'm scared. My girl friend has offered to be at my house when he arrives, and set the stage by making him comfortable. She has also written down some clever phrases that can be used to liven up a conversation.

When I told her I didn't think it would work she said, "There are very few original thinkers in this world." What do you think?

—BOOLA
Dear Boole: Cut out the venyour girl friend's wit on to your pretty face. It won't work.

You may not be able to produce any conversational gems but the one thing you can do better than anyone else in the world is "Be Yourself."

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are in a difficult spot. We were married secretly last summer. No one knows about this.

Our parents are expecting us to get married this Fall. I will get hurt then deeply if they know we had run off and married without them. They are talking about big plans for a church wedding and we feel like common criminals. Is it against the law to get married a second time in a church after having been married once secretly?

We do want a church wedding and we hate to tell our parents about last summer. Please advise us. —MR. AXD MRS.

Dear Mr. and Mrs.: There is nothing illegal about a church trilateral act. Develop your own personality and don't try to graft course you marry the same person.

Dear Ann Landers: My next door neighbor has two dogs. I think they are starving. Both dogs are very thin, and their bones actually stick out.

Several times in the past few weeks I have seen these pathetic creatures in the back yard and have given them some left - over meat. They now wag their tails whenever they see me, jump around and bark and greet me as a friend. I hate not to give them food because they seem to expect it.

My husband says I should mind my own business or I will get in bad with the neighbor. He says the dogs are not my responsibility. Please tell me what to do. —DO-GOODER

Dear Do - Gooder: Tell your neighbor you like her dogs and you enjoy tossing them a piece of left-over meat "occasionally." Ask her if she has any objections. Chances are she will appreciate your interest and give you the okay. There is more than one way to skin a cat—or feed a dog.

Confidential to "Wronged Woman." If you must cry over spoiled milk, please condense it. Forty-seven pages is a lot of reading. Please try it again—and so will I.

Dinner, Picnic Among Tallulah Social Events

Mrs. Lamar T. Loe entertained members of the Calhoun - Crosby bridal party and other guests at her home with a buffet supper following the rehearsal at the First Baptist Church on Friday evening, June 10. Pink roses and pink hydrangeas with white candles decorated the reception rooms, and in the den a variety of day lilies were used.

Miss Delores Crosby and Donald Calhoun, the bride and groom-elect chose this occasion to present gifts to their attendants.

Those attending the event were Mrs. J. W. Crosby, Miss Wenonah Watts of Vicksburg, Mississippi, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Childress, Mr. and Mrs. James Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Beau Laird all of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Drake of Colorado Springs, Colorado, Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Brulte, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Stone, the Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Pierce, Bill King, Miss Ernestine Stewart and Miss Nina Moffett of Jennings.

PICNIC

A group of the Madison Parish Garden Club attended the annual picnic at Scurria camp on Lake Bruin on Tuesday, June 7. A dinner and conversational period was the feature of the meeting and enroute home there was a tour of the State Park in the parish.

Those in attendance were Mrs. R. W. Gandy, Mrs. R. S. Gayle, Mrs. Gussie Hebert, Miss Amy Holmes, Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. Mildred Kern, Mrs. S. J. Lombardo, Mrs. H. S. Weaver, Miss Jenny Scurria, Mrs. Sam Scurria, Miss Hazel Powell and Mrs. Nettie Scurria.

Bunker Hill Swarms With Sightseers

BOSTON (UPI) — Bunker Hill swarmed with paraders and sightseers Friday when Charleston observed the 185th anniversary of the battle where 1,200 patriots held their fire until they could see "the whites of their eyes."

In a speech at the ceremonies, Thomas J. Fleming, author of "Now We Are Enemies," a new book on Bunker Hill, said "the sense of humiliation experienced at Bunker Hill is a good thing for Americans of 1960 to contemplate."

"Bunker Hill has this to say to us: we are not invincible," he said.

The observance pays homage to patriots who hastily dug fortifications one night on Breed's Hill, a shoulder of Bunker Hill, and then held off three charges by 3,000 redcoats, fleeing only when the colonists' ammunition ran out.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Prepare For Presence Of Children In Summer

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Once the children are out of school the household routine begins to revolve around them. They bang in and out of doors a hundred times a day, small friends are always under foot, there are constant demands for food and cold drinks, and you hear the reiterated complaints: "What shall I do? Where can I go? I want to have some fun."

Households ought to be geared to this new routine for it will remain the same all summer. If mothers are to have the patience to deal with the children, they have to simplify their own work in every possible way.

Store all the ornaments. Take down curtains if they keep away the cooling breezes and make the rooms seem hotter. Put away the hot pillows on the davenport. Use a plastic, colorful cover on the dining-room table and don't be ashamed to use paper plates and napkins often. There is going to be more washing anyway, to keep clothes clean, and there is need to minimize this hot task.

Give each child some task to do before he begins his day of play. He'll enjoy his leisure more if he doesn't have too much of it. Even leisure can pall on one, if that is all there is in a day. He'll get used to saying to his friends, "My Mom says I have to wash the porch," or the dishes or make the beds, etc.

Betty Grable, Harry James Flee Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A million-dollar-plus, pre-dawn fire Friday destroyed fashionable El Rancho Hotel's main building as Betty Grable, current star of its night club, fled with husband Harry James and two dozen others.

Flames leaping 100 feet consumed in 20 minutes the casino, theater, cocktail lounge and restaurant of the 21-year-old ranch-style resort—the first of this gambling mecca's nine glittering "Strip" hotels.

Authorities were investigating the possibility of arson after being told an unidentified man talked about fire with casino executives three hours before the blaze broke out.

The flames evidently started in the kitchen adjoining the swank theater and restaurant about 4:30 a.m. About 25 hotel and casino officials, show people and customer's ran from the building.

Guests were in undamaged cottages 150 feet and more from the

'NEVER AGAIN' 2 Sergeants Finish Record Time Hike

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two British sergeants completed a trans-continental hike from San Francisco's Golden Gate in the record time of 67 days Friday and declared they would never do such a thing again, not even for $10,000.

Although they were neither footsore nor weary after their 3,022-mile hike, the pair vowed as they hoisted glasses of foaming stout that they would stick to airplanes.

Miss Grable and her orchestra leader husband were in the hotel lounge in an impromptu comedy routine with another current star at the hotel, Dave Burton, when the fire started.

Chorus girls employed at the hotel were awakened in their apartments on the grounds by fire engine sirens. Frantically they ran toward the fire hoping to rescue gowns and personal effects from blazing backstage dressing rooms. Sheriff's deputies held them back.

Welsh Staff Sgt. Mervyn Evans, 33, an Army parachutist, and Irish Flight Sgt. Patrick Moloney, 34, a Royal Air Force parachutist, set out from San Francisco on April 12. Their hike ended at 10:17 a.m. e.d.t. Friday, 66 days, 4 hours and 17 minutes after they had started.

They broke the record set in 1926 by Abraham L. Monteverde, of Mays Landing, N.J., who walked 3,415 miles from New York to San Francisco in 79 days, 10 hours, 10 minutes.

In 1909, Edward Weston walked from Los Angeles to New York, a distance of 3,483 miles, in 77 days.

Today's heroes of the world's walkers also managed to leave a famous woman hiker in the dust. Dr. Barbara Moore, who set out a day after the soldiers had reached only the eastern outskirts of Indianapolis as the sergeants strode into New York.

Dr. Moore, also British, ran into hard luck when one of her fans accidentally knocked her down with an automobile. She was in a hospital for a few days while the sergeants kept up their steady pace.

Stands Pat On Guard Decision

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett stood pat Friday on his decision to split the National Guard and Air National Guard commands despite protests from officers and doubts from Washington about the legality.

After receiving telegrams from numerous Air National Guard officers, Barnett issued a brief statement reaffirming his appointment of Col. Eugene Vinson of Meridian to head the Air National Guard.

The governor said the appointment was made "with the assurance that it be strictly in accordance with the applicable regulations of the Department of the Air Force and the National Guard Bureau."

However, Co. Lloyd Ator, aide to the chief of the National Guard Bureau, said in a telephone interview from Washington that Barnett may not have the authority to separate the command by proclamation. Ator said the state could not have two adjutant generals, regardless of their titles.

CAMPAIGN MANAGERS SAY

Prospects Good For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Campaign strategists for Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) say prospects are bright that he will pick up enough additional support by convention time to win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot.

They claim the Massachusetts lawmaker is within 100 to 150 votes — and perhaps closer — of securing up the nomination.

They feel it is just a matter of time until the needed additional delegates climb aboard his bandwagon. Some of his partisans think the pace-setting Kennedy already has the strength for a first-ballot nomination.

The Democratic convention opens at Los Angeles July 11.

A total of 761 votes is needed for the presidential nomination. Kennedy's camp puts the senator's present strength at 600 to 650 votes and perhaps higher.

Supporters of Kennedy's rivals generally concede that he can claim a delegate vote of 600 or so. But they insist he has reached a ceiling that will leave him up-ward of 100 votes short of the necessary majority.

The UPI tabulation of pledged delegates and known first ballot preferences gives Kennedy 376½ votes, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) 177½ and Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.) 70. There are scattered votes for favorite sons and other candidates.

CAMPAIGN MANAGERS SAY

Prospects Good For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Campaign strategists for Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) say prospects are bright that he will pick up enough additional support by convention time to win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot.

They claim the Massachusetts lawmaker is within 100 to 150 votes — and perhaps closer — of sewing up the nomination.

They feel it is just a matter of time until the needed additional delegates climb aboard his bandwagon. Some of his partisans think the pace-setting Kennedy already has the strength for a first-ballot nomination.

The Democratic convention opens at Los Angeles July 11.

A total of 761 votes is needed for the presidential nomination. Kennedy's camp puts the senator's present strength at 600 to 650 votes and perhaps higher. Supporters of Kennedy's rivals generally concede that he can claim a delegate vote of 600 or so, but they insist he has reached a ceiling that will leave him up to 100 votes short of the necessary majority.

The UPI tabulation of pledged delegates and known first ballot preferences gives Kennedy 375 votes, Sen. Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas) 177½ and Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.) 70. There are scattered votes for favorite sons and other candidates.

'NORMAL ALERT'

Report Given On 7th Fleet

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—The 7th fleet in the Pacific is reduced to "normal precautionary alert," the Navy said today. The fleet was alerted after the nuclear submarine Sargo was damaged by fire at Pearl Harbor.

In giving this answer to news, a spokesman said that the fleet was alerted after the Sargo was damaged by fire at Pearl Harbor. The fleet was alerted after the Sargo was damaged by fire at Pearl Harbor.

At present the 7th fleet, which has its forward bases in Japan and the Philippines, includes three carriers, the spokesman said after conferring with Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations. The fleet usually has two or three carriers on station in the Western Pacific.

Burke and virtually all others of the top civilian and military command are at this Marine base for their annual conference. The spokesman was asked whether any move has been made to strengthen the fleet's military forces in the Far East to meet the possibility of trouble from Red China.

The answer was that "none has been announced."

Has any new action been taken to strengthen the forces of the Chinese Nationalists in their primary position on Formosa and in the offshore island of Quemoy?

There has been "no special acceleration," newsmen were told, but the Nationalist forces already have been provided with "modern weapons and equipment in quantity" under terms of the military assistance program.

Third Judge Favored By Association

The Fourth District Bar Association still favors a third judge ship for the district, and has taken no action to divide the district into separate sectors.

This was learned Friday, following an Association meeting in Monroe Thursday night.

Association members, composed of attorneys from Ouachita and Morehouse parishes, passed two resolutions in March, concerning a third judgeship. These resolutions remain unchanged and have been presented to the state legislature for action.

The first resolution requests representatives and senators from Morehouse and Ouachita parishes to prepare a bill to authorize the third judge for the district.

The second resolution asks the delegates to prepare a bill for a constitutional amendment, which would be voted on at next November's general election.

This amendment would allow the voters to decide whether they want the third judge to come from Morehouse parish.

Law requires such voting on this point. The legislature could only pass a bill creating the third judgeship, but could not specify which parish he come from, local attorneys explain.

They point out that the Fourth Judicial District has existed for more than 50 years, and that a majority of the Association's members wish to continue the tradition.

But the Association has not passed any resolution opposing a division of the district.

Both Morehouse and Ouachita were well represented at the Thursday night meeting, attorneys said.

Reports from Baton Rouge indicate that since the Association has taken no measures to clear up the deadlock concerning the judgeship, the matter probably will not meet favorable consideration in the legislature.

The Ouachita and Morehouse delegations have come to a standstill in trying to work out a solution to the problem.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has taken the lead in efforts to force a school construction bill through Congress before it adjourns for the political conventions, a Nixon aide reported Friday.

Herbert G. Klein, the vice president's press secretary, said Nixon conferred with House leaders and White House representatives on school aid legislation.

He said Nixon was one of the prime movers in arranging the conference.

As a result of the session, Klein said, there is "a good chance that a school construction bill" will come out of a House-Senate conference committee.

The House passed a bill calling for a $1,300,000,000 program of school construction over four years. The Senate approved a two-year $1,200,000,000 program—and voted to provide the states money to help pay teachers salaries if they wished.

The administration strongly opposes the teacher pay provision and Klein said it would be omitted from any version that came out of a House-Senate conference committee.

The Senate has asked the House to let a House-Senate committee iron out differences in the two versions. But House leaders failed to get unanimous consent for this procedure, leaving the issue up to the House rules committee. And some committee members are cool to any federal aid to education.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Shipbuilding Workers Union and Bethlehem Steel Co. were "hopeful" Friday that the 3-month-old East Coast dock strike could be settled soon.

But neither side would predict when the dispute would end as another negotiating session with federal mediators resumed this afternoon after a slight delay.

Teams of bargainers representing union and management sat down for the third straight day here with Federal Mediators John A. Burke and Thomas G. Dougherty. Tuesday, Federal Mediator Joseph P. Finnegan summoned both sides here from New York, where the talks had been held sporadically.

Red Delegate Hurls Charges At U.S.

GENEVA (UPI)—Chief Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin Friday accused the United States of deliberately hamstringing the East-West disarmament talks in an attack loaded with barbed references to the rioting in Japan.

He said it now is up to the United States whether the 10-nation conference here continued.

Zorin launched the attack, reminiscent of the cold war, less than an hour after chief U.S. delegate Frederick M. Eaton announced he was returning to Washington Friday night for several days of consultations.

The Russian spokesman blasted American policy in general and took verbal swipes at Eaton personally. Eaton, he said, merely was trying to "muddle a completely clear question" of disarmament.

Zorin variously described Eaton's statements to the conference as "completely groundless," "distorted," "unfair," "in contradiction with common sense," and "absurd in their substance."

He said the United States is unwilling to disarm, or dismantle its bases in Europe and the Far East in return for what he claimed was a Soviet promise to scrap its "superior" nuclear missiles.

But, Zorin contended the recent events in Japan and Korea as well as the Iraqi revolution two years ago proved that the United States and Britain no longer safely can maintain their foreign military bases.

"It is not accidental," the Russian said, "that the Japanese people rejected the visit of the U.S. President Eisenhower... because the Japanese people directly aimed this visit to the policy aimed at perpetuating American military bases in Japan."

"Mr. Eaton evidently could tell us that American air and rocket bases in South Korea were established in agreement with Syngman Rhee. But where is Syngman Rhee now?"

NEW YORK (UPI)—The attorney for imprisoned Soviet spy Rudolf Ivanovich Abel left for Europe Friday to await word from the U.S. government on a plan to ask the Russians to exchange Abel for American U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers.

James B. Donovan said Thursday night that Oliver Powers, a Pound, Va., cobbler, had written Abel offering to ask President Eisenhower and the State Department to initiate negotiations for such a trade.

Donovan indicated that Abel, 30, who is serving a 30-year espionage sentence, favored the plan.

A possible stumbling block to any negotiations lay in the fact that the Russians never have acknowledged the existence of Abel, who was arrested in Brooklyn in 1957 for transmitting U.S. defense and atomic secrets.

McSween Record Hit From Stump

B. AUSTIN ABRAMS
Staff Correspondent

Earl Long and Ben Holt rode parallel campaign trails through Grant Parish yesterday, snapping cautiously at each other and lashing out sharply at 8th District Congressman Harold McSween.

Both Long and Holt harped away in very similar stump speeches up U. S. Highways 165 and 167.

Holt opened in Bentley at 1:30 p.m. with five speeches on schedule and Long kept his first audience waiting 30 minutes at Pollock where he spoke at 5 p.m.

Neither speaker attacked the other too seriously but McSween's voting record came in for plenty of shots.

LONG IN OPEN
Long was more open in his charges against McSween than Holt was.

However, Holt told his audiences that "if you can show me just one instance where Mr. McSween voted to help the people in this district then I'll get out of the race."

Holt and his speaking mate, former Avoyelles Parish state senator and representative, Dayton McCann, charged that McSween was being ordered around by "five Alexandria businessmen."

Long accused McSween of voting with the Republicans.

He said, "McSween ought to be a Republican. He's voted with them all the way down the line. Why he's a better Republican than Eisenhower."

Holt and Long attacked McSween's vote "against the REA."

In Tullos, Long charged that McSween's father had been made a member of an Alexandria law firm and was now counsel for Central Louisiana Electric Company.

"That's why McSween voted against the REA," Long said.

Popping a suspender with his thumb, Long told his Pollock listeners:

"The other day Mr. Holt said I was too old for Congress. Let me tell you there's lots of snap left in me. You know there is a lot of reading in an old book."

Mass federal ownership of lands in the 8th district drew blasts from both Long and Holt.

Both are advocating selling or allowing homestead rights to people in the district.

Attorney Joe Arthur Simms joined Long's speaking in Tullos. About his auto accident and arrest in New Orleans earlier this week, Long said, "You know why I was arrested? I'll tell you."

"It's because I was against little story-telling Delta Soaps Jacks Morrison—that's why."

Holt spoke in Bentley, Prong, Verda, Montgomery and Colfax. He is scheduled today in Pollock, Jena, Tullos, Olla, Sikes, Dodson and Winnfield.

Long appeared in Pollock, Georgetown, Tullos and Olla. He is scheduled today in Jena, Colfax, Natchitoches, Zwolle, Converse and Clarence.

The Senate also authorized three surveys and voted to change the name of the Detroit Dam and Reservoir on the San Juan River in Oregon to the Douglas McKay Dam.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate, with few amendments and no objections, passed a $1,583,768,332 public works authorization bill Friday.

It included 134 navigation, flood control and beach erosion projects, plus 29 surveys in 41 states.

The roll call vote was 70-5.

The omnibus rivers and harbors bill passed by the Senate was $926,447,832 larger than the one passed by the House last year which amounted to $637,321,500.

The difference, which must be agreed to by a House-Senate conference committee or deleted there, was caused by the many projects which came before the Senate public works committee this year but were not ready when the House acted in 1959.

The full Senate, voting after a lengthy session on other matters, hardly quibbled with the committee's report.

Projects for Pennsylvania in the bill included flood control on the Conoquenessing Creek in Butler County and the Loyalhanna Creek in Westmoreland County. These would cost $1,536,700 and $2,568,300.

An Erie harbor project costing $1,729,000 also included.

Only two amendments curbing actual money authorization were added on the floor of the Senate.

One, proposed by Sen. Lister Hill (D-Fla.) provided a $120,000 authorization for a wildlife refuge at the Jackson lock and dam in Alabama.

The other, offered on behalf of Sen. John C. Stennis and James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrats, provided $350,000 authorization to deepen the channel at the Pascagoula, Miss., harbor so the Ingalls Shipbuilding Co. can build submarines and get them out to sea.

'NORMAL ALERT'

Report Given On 7th Fleet

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—The 7th Fleet in the Far East is in a "normal precautionary alert," the Defense Department said Friday.

In giving this answer to newsmen, a spokesman said that this apparently limited alert was due to the presence of President Eisenhower in the area and "the general tempo of the times in the Pacific and particularly in the Formosa area."

Davis Signs Bill Allowing DA Shifting

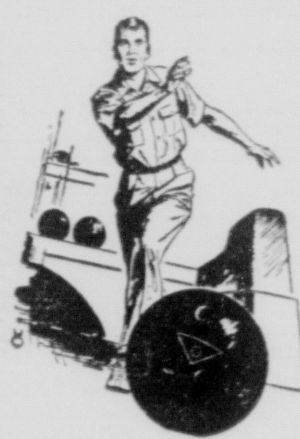

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis Friday signed a bill to allow the attorney general to assign a district attorney to another district to fill vacancies in district attorney offices.

The bill was certified as emergency legislation. It became law when signed by the governor.

Rep. Samuel Cashio, Iberville Parish, was author of the measure.

Orleans Parish was expected from provisions of the bill, which provides for filling vacancies caused by resignation, death or removal.

Postmasters To Attend Meeting

Monroe Postmaster Westwood W. Hathorn and West Monroe Postmaster Homer D. Roark are scheduled to attend the state Postmasters Convention at Lafayette from Sunday through Tuesday.

Roy D. Schlegel, deputy assistant Postmaster, General Bureau of Facilities at Washington, D.C., will be featured speaker at the group's banquet. Hathorn will introduce him.

McSween Record Hit From Stump

B AUSTIN ABRAMS
Staff Correspondent

Earl Long and Ben Holt rode parallel campaign trails through Grant Parish yesterday, snapping cautiously at each other and lashing out sharply at 8th District Congressman Harold McSween.

Both Long and Holt harped away in very similar stump speeches up U. S. Highways 163 and 167.

Holt opened in Bentley at 1:30 p.m. with five speeches on schedule and Long kept his first audience waiting 30 minutes at

Public Works Bill Receives Senate Okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, with few amendments and no objections, passed a $1,583,768,352 public works authorization bill Friday.

It included 134 navigation, flood control and beach erosion projects, plus 29 surveys in 41 states.

The roll call vote was 70-5.

The omnibus rivers and harbors bill passed by the Senate was $926,447,852 larger than the one passed by the House last year which amounted to $657,321,500.

The difference, which must be agreed to by a House-Senate conference committee or deleted there, was caused by the many projects which came before the Senate public works committee this year but were not ready when the House acted in 1959. The full Senate, voting after a lengthy session on other matters, hardly quibbled with the committee's report.

Projects for Pennsylvania in the bill included flood control on the Conoquesing Creek in Butler County and the Loyalhanna Creek in Westmoreland County. These would cost $1,558,700 and $2,568,300.

An Erie harbor project costing $1,729,000 was also included.

Only two amendments carrying actual money authorization were added on the floor of the Senate. One, proposed by Sen. Lister Hill (D-Fla.) provided a $120,000 authorization for a wildlife refuge at the Jackson lock and dam in Alabama.

The other, offered on behalf of Sens. John C. Stennis and James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrats, provided $850,000 authorization to deepen the channel at the Pascagoula, Miss., harbor so the Ingalls Shipbuilding Co. can build submarines and get them out to sea.

The Senate also authorized three surveys and voted to change the name of the Detroit Dam and Reservoir on the Saniam River in Oregon to the Douglas McKay Dam.

Turkey's New Regime Plans Belt-Tightening

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's new military government launched a program of economic belt-tightening Friday night to wipe out huge debts incurred by the deposed regime of ex-Premier Adnan Menderes.

Finance Minister Ekrem Alican announced the new economic program is aimed at continued development but "within the limits of stability."

One criticism against the Menderes regime was that the vast program of national roadworks and buildings never was paid for. Alican said government investment will be cut by 500 million Turkish lira—55 million dollars, the debts of state-owned enterprises consolidated, long-term repayments worked out, and credit strictly controlled.

Pollock where he spoke at 5 p.m. Neither speaker attacked the other too seriously but McSween's voting record came in for plenty of shots.

LONG IN OPEN
Long was more open in his charges against McSween than Holt was.

However, Holt told his audiences that "If you can show me just one instance where Mr. McSween voted to help the people in this district then I'll get out of the race."

Holt and his speaking mate, former Avoyelles Parish state senator and representative, Dayton McCann, charged that McSween was being ordered around by "five Alexandria businessmen."

Long accused McSween of voting with the Republicans. He said, "McSween ought to be a Republican. He's voted with them all the way down the line. Why he's a better Republican than Eisenhower."

Holt and Long attacked McSween's vote "against the REA."

In Tullos, Long charged that McSween's father had been made a member of an Alexandria law firm and was now counsel for Central Louisiana Electric Company.

"That's why McSween voted against the REA," Long said.

Popping a suspender with his thumb, Long told his Pollock listeners:

"The other day Mr. Holt said I was too old for Congress. Let me tell you there's lots of snap left in me. You know there is a lot of reading in an old book. Mass federal ownership of lands in the 8th district drew blasts from both Long and Holt."

Both are advocating selling or allowing homestead rights to people in the district.

Attorney Joe Arthur Simms joined Long's speaking in Tullos.

About his auto accident and arrest in New Orleans earlier this week, Long said, "You know why I was arrested? I'll tell you."

"It's because I was against little story-telling Della Soops Jackass Morrison—that's why," Holt spoke in Bentley. Dry Prong, Verda, Montgomery and Culfax. He is scheduled today in Pollock, Jena, Tullos, Olla, Sikes, Dodson and Winnfield.

Long appeared in Pollock, Georgetown, Tullos and Olla. He is scheduled today in Jena, Culfax, Natchitoches, Zwolle, Converse and Clarence.

Williams Set To Appear Favoring Bill

Jim Williams, Monroe Chamber of Commerce general manager, will appear before the House Appropriations Committee in Baton Rouge Monday to urge passage of House Bill 536 creating a committee to investigate government agencies and financial affairs.

He will appear along with representatives of the Association of Louisiana Chambers of Commerce at 8:30 a.m.

Williams noted that the state has 217 agencies, employing 40,000 persons.

"We operate on a $1-million yearly deficit. Ten different agencies collect taxes. The tax structure has 48 state taxes. We have transferred $390 million to the general fund in the last 16 years, but have applied only $31 million to retire the state's debt. We're not running the state on a businesslike basis," he stressed.

Under HB 536, a Louisiana Re-organizational Study Commission would be set up, members would be appointed and authorized to conduct a comprehensive study of governmental and agency organizational structure.

Members also would check into the state's financial affairs.

The bill provides them with authority to request aid and services for the study, for reports, termination date, and a $35,000 appropriation from the General Fund for fiscal year 1960-61.

The study will take two years. If it is not started until 1962, it will be concluded at the time for the next general election, and a new governor could "let it lie," he continued.

"If Davis puts his endorsement on it, he can let it do what it is supposed to do," Williams commented.
